Ex-Ike Aide To Get Rare Tibetan Dogs

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Two rare Tibetan mastiffs are awaiting a plane to take them to New York, where they'll gladden the heart and run up the butcher bill of a dog-loving former secretary of President Eisenhower.

U. S. Embassy sources said Thomas E. Stephens, New York lawyer and the President's former appointment secretary, sent word he would like to own a pair of the animals. His desire was conveyed to the government in Nepal, Communist-ruled Tibet's next-door neighbor.

Nepalese diplomatic officials in Tibet took the matter in hand and in due time two mastiffs, also known as Sherpa dogs, arrived in Katmandu from Khyong, Tibet, a six-day march from the Nepalese capital.

A news item from Katmandu two weeks ago said the dogs were on the way — as a gift from the Nepal government to Eisenhower. That was a mistake. Nepal Foreign Secretary Nap Airatapha handed them over to Paul W. Rose, director of the U. S. mission in Nepal, for Stephens.

The animals stand 3½ feet high already and each eats four pounds of meat a day.

LA BANDA, Argentina (AP) — Lorenzo Benegas at 73 decided he did not have long to live. He bought a cemetery lot.

He set about digging his own grave Monday. While he was shoveling, a sudden electric storm came up and a lightning bolt killed him.

LONDON (AP) — Mrs. Joan Russell received $2,800 damages Monday for injuries suffered when she was shot by the starting gun at a yacht race. She was hit in the leg by a wad of paper used to ram the powder into the small cannon.

Red Chinese Hinted Ready To Free Yanks

HONG KONG (AP) — Word that the Chinese Red Cross had advised Mrs. Ruth Redmond to appeal in person to Premier Chou En-lai for her jailed son's release aroused speculation today the Reds may be preparing to free him and two other Americans.

Mrs. Redmond, of Yonkers, N. Y., said by telephone from Shanghai she will fly to Peiping Wednesday to intercede with Chou on behalf of her son, Hugh, 38, serving a life term in Shanghai on spy charges.

Mrs. Redmond disclosed that the Red Cross broached the idea Sunday and she accepted at once. It appeared unlikely that the Chinese Red Cross would advise such a trip without Chou's full knowledge. It was also the Red Cross which suggested earlier that Mrs. Redmond and two other American mothers visiting sons imprisoned in Red China apply for a week's extension of their visas. The extensions were promptly granted.

In Peiping, Red China's capital, Mrs. Redmond will join Mrs. Jessie Fecteau of Lynn, Mass., and Mrs. Mary Downey of New Britain, Conn., whose sons, Richard Fecteau and John Downey, are serving sentences of 20 years and life, respectively.

President Winging Back to Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — President and Mrs. Eisenhower were due back at the White House this afternoon. The President and his wife spent last night in Chicago after his address to a Republican campaign fund-raising dinner.

The presidential plane, Columbine III, took off from Midway Airport, Chicago, this morning in a heavy snowstorm. The snow was melting as it fell and turned to slush. The Weather Bureau said the flying ceiling was around 600 feet and visibility less than two miles.

READY FOR THE REDS — Adm. Arleigh Burke (left), chief of naval operations, and Adm. John Haywood, Navy research chief, huddle with Edward Weis, counsel for the Senate preparedness committee prior to a session. Burke said the U.S. has the "technique and capability" to handle what the Soviets have today, but is worrying about the time when the Russians catch up in the development of nuclear-powered submarines.

Mt. Sterling Blaze Destroys Hotel, Other Business Firms

Heavy damage was inflicted on a Mt. Sterling hotel and four business establishments as the result of a fire which broke out in the downtown area today at 4 a. m. Firemen fought the blaze during a driving rain storm.

The fire apparently started in the Tenny Hotel, across the street from Mt. Sterling City Hall. The blaze was discovered by the hotel manager who immediately notified the Mt. Sterling Fire Department.

Besides the hotel, the Williams' Five and Ten and McKinley's Beer Carryout were destroyed. In the same vicinity the Moore's Store, a Used Furniture Store in the rear of the Moore's Store and the Knights of Pythias Hall in the upper story were heavily damaged. No estimate of damage was immediately available.

Seven fire departments and approximately 125 firemen were on the scene. They managed to bring the flames under control at 8:30 a. m. The fire departments included Mt. Sterling, Williamsport, Harrisburg, Rome, Midway, Grove City and the Franklin County Hook and Ladder.

MT. STERLING police were at the scene as well as the Madison County Sheriff's department, deputies from the Franklin County Sheriff's Department and Don Rolf from the Pickaway County Sheriff's office.

Two fire fighters were injured when a wall of the hotel collapsed. Fireman John Joseph of Mt. Sterling received broken fingers and Bob Steele of the Franklin County Hook and Ladder suffered a broken arm.

Fire Causes $250 Damage

A blaze at the William Speakman residence, Kingston Pike, yesterday at 5:20 p. m. caused damage estimated at $250.

Circleville Firemen said the blaze was confined to the roof and siding. The fire apparently was caused by a defective chimney, they added.

Chief Talmer Wise and Fireman Glenn Jones answered the call.

Ike Says U.S. Military Strength to 'Grow Stronger'

CHICAGO (AP) — President Eisenhower says America is strong militarily "and will grow ever stronger" and declares that national security must be based on a political issue in this year's congressional election campaigns.

The President also told a Republican $100-a-plate dinner rally and a nationwide TV-radio audience Monday night that United States defense is markedly stronger than when he took office five years ago.

Eisenhower again pledged effective modernization of the defense setup to deal more adequately with the Russian threat in the future. And he told applauding party faithfuls here that in the modernization program "I intend to participate personally until the job is done."

The President, with Mrs. Eisenhower at his side, spoke for 15 minutes before about 5,000 enthusiastic diners at Chicago's International Amphitheatre at the start of his sixth year as chief executive. His talk kicked off the 1958 drive to capture control of Congress from the Democrats.

House Group Hikes Ike's Missile Fund $40 Million

Nimitz Prefers Only 3-Man JCS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chester W. Nimitz, former top Navy officer, proposed today that the Joint Chiefs of Staff be reduced to three members.

He told the Senate missile-satellite inquiry that the post of chairman of the top military advisers could be rotated among heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

"This would remove one layer in this pyramid of the chain of command," Nimitz said.

The white-haired Nimitz recalled that at one time during World War II, when he was a top commander in the Pacific, he favored a "single chief of staff."

That was when he "had a sense of frustration" waiting for decisions from Washington, he explained. But he said hindsight and experience have convinced him "I was wrong and I am now opposed to a single chief of staff."

AFTER WORLD War II, Admiral Nimitz served as chief of naval operations for two years and then retired.

The Senate preparedness subcommittee called him and Gen. Carl Spaatz, former Air Force chief of staff, for public testimony in its search for ways to streamline the Defense Department and speed missile-satellite programs.

The House Armed Services Committee pursued a parallel inquiry, calling two witnesses for closed testimony—Secretary of the Army Brucker and Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, acting Army chief of staff.

These hearings provided the backdrop for action by the House Appropriations Committee on President Eisenhower's $1.2 billion emergency program to speed up missile work and spread out bases of the Strategic Air Command to make the nation's long-range bombers less vulnerable.

A LONG PARADE of industrial and other witnesses have told the Senate subcommittee, headed by Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), that this country is falling behind Russia in intercontinental ballistic missiles (ICBM) and other weapons of the future. But the men in uniform, while partially agreeing, contend also that U. S. capabilities should not be underrated.

Military witnesses told the House Appropriations Committee, in testimony taken last week but made public Monday, that the United States could sustain a surprise attack by the Soviet Union and still recover sufficiently to annihilate Russia.

The testimony was highlighted by the assertion of Adm. Arleigh Burke, present chief of naval operations, that "the advent of missiles does not change our ability to destroy Russia."

He said the U. S. capability of

Woman Continues Anti-Red Defense

CLEVELAND (AP) — Marie Reed Haug returned to the witness stand in U. S. District Court today to defend herself against accusations she filed false non-Communist affidavits.

Mrs. Haug testified Monday she had completely separated herself from the Communist party before she filed non-Communist affidavits as an official of the United Electrical Workers Union in the years 1949-1953.

Under the Taft-Hartley Act, such affidavits are required of union officials before their groups can use the services of the National Labor Relations Board.

Slayer of Ex-Wife's Friend To Get Parole

COLUMBUS (AP) — Thomas Welch, who fatally shot a man who was keeping company with his estranged wife, Joyce, will be paroled from the Mansfield Reformatory April 21.

The 29-year-old former welder from Lorain is serving a 1-to-20-year manslaughter sentence in the fatal shooting Jan. 18, 1957, of David Garcia in Lorain. Welch shot Garcia several times when he found Garcia and his wife together. Welch gave himself up after driving to a highway patrol post, destroying Russia, if the free world is attacked, "is not decreasing."

"What has happened," he said, "is that they now, for the first time, have the prospect of a capability to destroy us quickly." He said that in the field of missiles, "I think that the United States over-all is ahead of Russia."

Burke spent most of Monday at a secret session of the Senate subcommittee.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, vice chief of staff of the Air Force, told the House appropriations committee the United States could be the first to send a rocket to the moon.

If funds were provided for the Air Force to undertake such a project, he said, "I think we could come pretty close" in 1958.

Klan Chieftain Told Surrender

Carolina Preacher, Pal Are Indicted

LUMBERTON, N. C. (AP) — A South Carolina Ku Klux Klan leader was ordered to surrender today on a charge of inciting a riot between Klansmen and Indians.

Sheriff Malcolm McLeod said that if the Rev. James Cole, 32, of Marion, S. C., did not meet the deadline, he would begin legal proceedings for his arrest in South Carolina.

Rev. Mr. Cole describes himself as head of the Klan in both Carolinas.

A Robeson County grand jury composed of 3 Indians, 2 Negroes and 13 white men indicted Rev. Mr. Cole and Klansman James Garland Martin of Reidsville, N.C. Monday on charges of inciting riot. In addition, the grand jury cited others of the KKK "unknown to the state."

The charges stemmed from the Klan's short-lived rally Saturday as several hundred Indians, firing shotguns and rifles, drove the Klansmen from the site, near Maxton, 30 miles from here. Four persons suffered slight injuries as the Indians fired mostly into the air and into the ground. State troopers broke up the fracas.

AUTHORITIES already had custody of Martin, a 37-year-old tobacco plant worker. Officers found him in a ditch after the shooting and charged him with drunkenness and carrying concealed weapons. He will be tried on those charges at Maxton Wednesday by Judge Early Bullard, an Indian.

Rev. Mr. Cole has a police record of minor offenses in his native Lenoir County, N. C. Most of the charges were for assault or drunkenness, Kingston police said. "I'm sorry I came to Robeson County and I'm sorry I ever joined the Klan," Martin told news men. "I didn't think my fellow Klansmen would vanish in time of need."

At 109, She Asks Only Work, Laughs

DALLAS (AP) — A woman who says she's a 109-year-old former slave celebrated her birthday Monday and said she just wants to go on working, talking and laughing.

Mrs. Lydia McKnight of Greenville, Tex., here to visit her granddaughter, said she had no special birthday wish. "It's enough that I'm here," she smiled. "I've spent my life working, working, working and talking and laughing, and that's the way I want to go on."

Mrs. McKnight said she and her parents were slaves in Richmond, Va., before the Civil War.

Watchman's Criminal Venture Proves Costly

CLEVELAND (AP) — A brief venture into crime brought nothing but grief and a guilty conscience to a 44-year-old watchman here.

The conscience-stricken watchman came to police and said he took $700 Friday from the plant where he worked.

But, he told police woefully, hoodlums "rolled" him. The $700 is still missing.

$1.4 Billion OKd For Emergency In Air Force

Committee Says U.S. Over-All Strength Superior to Russia's

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today voted an emergency $1.4 billion fund to speed missile programs and give more punch to the Air Force retaliatory power.

This is $40 million more than President Eisenhower requested two weeks ago.

The addition is all for the Army, to bolster its missile programs. A last-minute revision doubled the proposed increase by allotting $20 million for the Pershing project, aimed to develop a solid-fuel successor to the Army's 200-mile range Redstone.

Of the total, $1¼ million is new cash and $150 million is authority to transfer funds already available. The $40 million increase is in the transfer funds.

The House will consider the committee's action, Wednesday and there are indications of a strong drive to boost this sum.

THE NEW MONEY will be made available to the Defense Department immediately to finance space age weapons programs which are developing faster than anticipated.

In a report written by Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of a subcommittee that drafted the measure, the committee said "our military strength as of today, in the over-all, is superior to that of the U.S.S.R." although in the critical areas of space satellites and ballistic missiles "we are generally behind" Russia.

The Air Force's share of the new funds in the emergency bill is $910 million, earmarked for dispersal of the Strategic Air Command's fleet of nuclear-bomb planes, and development of the Atlas, Thor and Jupiter ballistic missiles.

The money will provide also for construction of intermediate range ballistic missile platforms and facilities for an operational intercontinental ballistic missile squadron at Cooke Air Force Base in California, and for two overseas IIRB squadrons.

The Navy is allotted $350 million in new cash, of which $296 million is for construction of three atomic submarines capable of firing the Polaris ballistic missile.

The committee approved the President's request that he be allowed to use $10 million of available funds for the new Advanced Research Projects Agency.

Weatherman Foiled

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The weatherman doesn't know just how much snow has fallen at Independence, Kan. Wind blew the snow out of the official recording can this morning.

Heavy East-Bound Blizzard Paralyzes Kansas, Missouri

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The season's worst snowstorm virtually paralyzed large sections of Missouri and Kansas today.

Depths in the border areas of the two states ranged from 6 to 14 inches. Winds whipped up drifts that blocked major highways and made side roads and many city streets impassable.

In most of the storm area, the temperature was in the low 20s. However, to the west, the dry cold wave dropped the mercury to 29 below zero at Fraser, Colo.

At the leading edge of the storm rains spread eastward across the Appalachians to the Atlantic. Rains in the forefront of the Central Plains storm spread eastward through the Ohio Valley.

All of Ohio's major highways are open to traffic, but are snow covered and slippery in an area bounded by Elyria, Mansfield, Canton, Ravenna, Chardon, Cleveland, and Port Clinton, the state's highway department reported today.

Highways are slippery in spots in an area bounded by a line through Carrollton, Millersburg, Mount Vernon, Columbus, Lancaster and Cambridge, and in an area

Dems Rap Claims By Ike, Adams

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Senate Democrats challenged today President Eisenhower's contention that the nation's security has been "markedly strengthened" during his five years in office.

The Democrats also struck back at the assertion by Sherman Adams, chief presidential assistant, that their party has been "politicizing with national defense."

Defense matters received major attention as Eisenhower, Adams and other administration officials addressed a series of Republican rallies throughout the nation Monday night. Eisenhower's speech in Chicago was part of a half-hour program carried by a radio-television network.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said Eisenhower told only part of the story in claiming that the nation's defense have been bolstered under Republican rule.

"OF COURSE," Russell said, "we have got the B52 bomber and the B58 on its way during the period in which Eisenhower has been President. We have strengthened ourselves, but all defense is a relative matter."

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), a member of the preparedness committee investigating the missile and satellite programs, said the Eisenhower administration has "failed in its imperative responsibility" to keep the United States well ahead of Russia.

"Comparatively speaking, we are considerably less secure than when Eisenhower took office," he said.

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, agreed with Russell and Kefauver in saying the Democrats are trying to keep politics out of consideration of the defense program.

Eisenhower said the objective of security "is not a partisan or political matter."

But in Minneapolis, Adams accused the Democrats of playing politics with national defense in an effort to unify a party he said was divided, and said they "ought to be called strictly to account by the American people for using this subject as party glue."

Adams added that "we Republicans greet the opposition on this battlefield with as much anticipation as any other they can conjure up."

"It's too bad the coach and the quarterback didn't get together before the game and before they got crossed up on their signals," Mansfield commented.

Vice President Nixon said from New York that the Democratic party is so divided "it is incapable of effectively leading the nation" in the space era.

Irvine replied: "One of our reasons, Mr. Flood, for dispersal is to enable us to get the airplanes in the air quicker."

"I AGREE that Wright-Patterson is a good target, but, by having the airplanes there, it enables us to use that runway and get another area in which we can get more B52s (heavy bombers) in the air quicker than if we did not have it."

"I grant you that, if money, time, and so forth, were no object, we would build another base."

The Air Force, as a time and money saving device, wants to extend runways at 33 existing bases for squadrons of 15 B52s each.

These planes would be on constant alert, ready to strike back in case of enemy attack. In Ohio, the Air Force wants to set up three of these bases: At Wright-Patterson, at Clinton County, and at Lockbourne.

Sources familiar with the situation said NACA officials are confident that Kyle's recommendation will be favorable.

In fact, as an expression of that confidence, NACA has not halted construction of the $10¼ million facility despite doubts voiced by the AEC's Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards as to the wisdom of the building.

This committee has said that certain tests that might be conducted at this huge plant might entail a radiation risk.

But NACA experts, backed 100 per cent by the AEC staff, disagreed completely, and have assured Kyle that under no circumstances will anything that could be construed as dangerous be done in the plant.

Intentional Car Wreck May Bring Jail Term

BUTTE, Mont. (AP) — A Butte man, accused of trying to wreck his 1953 car because it used two quarts of oil every 100 miles, pleaded guilty Monday to violating the federal train wreck law.

Frank Stuart, 48, was accused of parking the car on Northern Pacific Railway tracks. A passenger train demolished the car. No one was injured.

Stuart faces a maximum penalty of $10,000 fine or 20-year prison sentence or both.

$1.4 Billion OKd For Emergency In Air Force

Committee Says U.S. Over-All Strength Superior to Russia's

WASHINGTON (U)—The House Appropriations Committee today voted an emergency $1.4 billion fund to speed missile programs and give more punch to the Air Force retaliatory power.

This is $40 million more than President Eisenhower requested two weeks ago.

The addition is all for the Army, to bolster its missile programs. A last-minute revision doubled the proposed increase by allotting $20 million for the Pershing project, aimed to develop a solid-fuel successor to the Army's 200-mile range Redstone.

Of the total, $1¼ million is new cash and $139 million is authority to transfer funds already available. The $40 million increase is in the transfer funds.

The House will consider the committee's action, Wednesday and there are indications of a strong drive to boost this sum.

THE NEW MONEY will be made available to the Defense Department immediately to finance space age weapons programs which are developing faster than anticipated.

In a report written by Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of a subcommittee that drafted the measure, the committee said "our military strength as of today, in the over-all, is superior to that of the U.S.S.R." although in the critical areas of space satellites and ballistic missiles "we are generally behind" Russia.

The Air Force's share of the new funds in the emergency bill is $910 million, earmarked for dispersal of the Strategic Air Command's fleet of nuclear bombers, and development of the Atlas, Thor and Jupiter ballistic missiles.

The money will provide also for construction of intermediate range ballistic missile platforms and facilities for an operational intercontinental ballistic missile squadron at Cooke Air Force Base in California, and for two overseas ICBM squadrons.

The Navy is allotted $350 million in new cash, of which $296 million is for construction of three atomic submarines capable of firing the Polaris ballistic missile.

The committee approved the President's request that he be allowed to use $10 million of available funds for the new Advanced Research Projects Agency.

Heavy East-Bound Blizzard Paralyzes Kansas, Missouri

KANSAS CITY (U)—The season's worst snowstorm virtually paralyzed large sections of Missouri and Kansas today.

Depths in the border areas of the two states ranged from 6 to 14 inches. Winds whipped up drifts that blocked major highways and made side roads and many city streets impassable.

In most of the storm area, the temperature was in the low 20s. However, to the west, the dry cold wave dropped the mercury to 29 below zero at Fraser, Colo.

At the leading edge of the storm rains spread eastward across the Appalachians to the Atlantic.

Rains in the forefront of the Central Plains storm spread eastward through the Ohio Valley.

All of Ohio's major highways are open to traffic, but are snow covered and slippery in an area bounded by Elyria, Mansfield, Canton, Ravenna, Chardon, Cleveland, and Port Clinton, the state's highway department reported today.

Dems Rap Claims By Ike, Adams

WASHINGTON (U)—Top Senate Democrats challenged today President Eisenhower's contention that the nation's security has been "markedly strengthened" during his five years in office.

The Democrats also struck back at the assertion by Sherman Adams, chief presidential assistant, that their party has been "politicizing with national defense."

Defense matters received major attention as Eisenhower, Adams and other administration officials addressed a series of Republican rallies throughout the nation Monday night. Eisenhower's speech in Chicago was part of a half-hour program carried by a radio-television network.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Senate Armed Services Committee said Eisenhower told only part of the story in claiming that the nation's defense has been bolstered under Republican rule.

"OF COURSE," Russell said, "we have got the B52 bomber and the B58 on its way during the period in which Eisenhower has been President. We have strengthened ourselves, but all defense is a relative matter."

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), a member of the preparedness committee investigating the missile and satellite programs, said the Eisenhower administration has "failed in its imperative responsibility" to keep the United States well ahead of Russia.

"Comparatively speaking, we are considerably less secure than when Eisenhower took office," he said.

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, agreed with Russell and Kefauver in saying the Democrats are "trying to keep politics out of consideration of the defense program."

Eisenhower said the objective of security "is not a partisan or political matter."

But in Minneapolis, Adams accused the Democrats of playing politics with national defense in an effort to unify a party he said was divided, and said they "ought to be called strictly to account by the American people for using this subject as party glue."

Adams added that "we Republicans greet the opposition to this battlefield with as much anticipation as any other they can conjure up."

"It's too bad the coach and the quarterback didn't get together before the game and before they got crossed up on their signals," Mansfield commented.

Vice President Nixon said from New York that the Democratic party is so divided "it is incapable of effectively leading the nation" in the space era.

Atom Reactor At Sandusky Due for Nod

WASHINGTON (U)—Some government officials predicted today a big atomic reactor going up near Sandusky, Ohio, will be completed despite certain misgivings expressed by a group of scientists.

The plant is being built by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA), a government agency, to test metals and fuels for atomic aircraft engines.

In order to complete the plant, NACA must have a construction permit. A hearing on an application for this permit was held last week by Atomic Energy Commission examiner Jay Kyle.

Sources familiar with the situation said NACA officials are confident that Kyle's recommendation will be favorable.

In fact, as an expression of that confidence, NACA has not halted construction of the $10½ million facility despite doubts voiced by the AEC's Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards as to the wisdom of the building.

This committee has said that certain tests that might be conducted at this huge plant might entail a radiation risk.

But NACA experts, backed 100 per cent by the AEC staff, disagreed completely, and have assured Kyle that under no circumstances will anything that could be construed as dangerous be done in the plant.

Last 11 Days Of '57 Hike Highway Toll

COLUMBUS (AP)—An 11-day period of slaughter at the close of 1957 shot Ohio's traffic death toll to 2,036 for the year, shattering hopes by state officials for a drop below the 1956 figure.

With 11 days in 1957 remaining, the year's traffic death toll stood at 1,932. That was 91 short of the entire 1956 figure. Another 62 would die if the daily average over the year held, officials figured.

But in what highway safety director Gordon Jeffery calls a "shameful period of tragedy" the final 11 days saw 104 deaths, and brought the year's total to 2,036, an increase of slightly less than one per cent over the 1956 figure of 2,023.

The death rate was identical in 1956 and 1957. Each year recorded 5.6 deaths for every 100 million miles traveled.

Traffic fatalities on rural highways last year dropped one per cent below the 1956 total. Of the 1957 total, 976 happened on rural state highways, compared with the 981 reported in 1956.

French Debate New Trend in Foreign Policy

Tunisian Dispute, Red Aid to Algeria Top Assembly Topics

PARIS (AP)—The National Assembly launched a foreign affairs debate today in an atmosphere of new tension stemming from disputes with Tunisia and two Communist countries over alleged aid to the Algerian rebels.

Deputies eagerly awaited a statement by Premier Felix Giscard d'Estaing on the rapid events which have flared in the past week on the edge of the three-year-old Algerian revolt.

Although the government may come under hot fire, its life was not expected to be endangered. Most Frenchmen agree basically on foreign policy, which offers less peril than such domestic issues as the budget and constitutional reform that will be discussed next.

France last night in effect accused two Communist nations—Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia—of aiding the rebels by sending arms to Algeria.

Two French warships intercepted the Yugoslav steamer Slovenija in the Mediterranean Saturday and seized 150 tons of weapons, explosives and ammunition from it.

Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said he had "clear proof" that an agent of the Algerian National Liberation Front (FLN) bought the arms in Czechoslovakia and that they were bound for Algeria via Casablanca, Morocco.

Pineau said France traced the arms—apparently by intelligence sources—through Yugoslavia to the Slovenija. It must be assumed that the two Communist governments knew what was going on.

Pineau said he rejected a request by Yugoslav Ambassador Radivoje Uvalic for "immediate restitution" of the arms.

Yugoslavia made a protest to Pineau "against the flagrant violation of international law." Yugoslavia claims the ship was 45 miles offshore when stopped.

Pineau said the distance "was about 50 kilometers (32 miles)." He explained that France in November 1956 declared publicly she reserved the right because of the rebellion to check on ships within 50 kilometers of the Algerian coast, and no nation protested.

In the dispute with Tunisia, France charges she is harboring Algerian rebels who captured four French soldiers near the French-Tunisian frontier. Tunisia denied the charge.

Stock Mart Is Irregular In Trading

NEW YORK (AP)—Aircraft moved a bit higher in an irregular stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

Gains of fractions to around a point and losses in about the same range were shown by pivotal stocks.

Rails resumed their decline from last week's spectacular advance. New York Central paced the retreat, down a point following news of its omitted dividend.

General Dynamics and Lockheed were higher and in demand following word that the Navy advised Congress that progress on the Polaris missile may warrant speeding up programs for submarines to launch it. Lockheed makes the Polaris and General dynamics the submarines.

The market was uncertain following Monday's failure to pierce the barrier of the November high, an important resistance point to upward progress.

After an active opening, the pace moderated but it picked up a bit near mid-day as the aircraft and some other stocks improved.

Lockheed moved up around a point and General Dynamics a major fraction.

Rises of about a point were made by International Paper and General Electric. Smaller gains were made by Youngstown Sheet, Sears Roebuck, Caterpillar, Radio Corp., International Nickel, Westinghouse Electric and Texas Co.

Illinois Central lost about a point. And Baltimore & Ohio lost fractions.

U. S. government bonds went narrowly to the upside.

Labor Ponders Court Action in 'Right' Dispute

Unions Hope To Avoid State Vote on Change In Ohio Constitution

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Labor leaders who failed to win approval for supplemental unemployment benefits at the polls in 1955 may seek to avert a popular vote on the union shop issue this year.

Union officials hint they may take court action to prevent "Ohioans For Right-To-Work" from placing on November election ballots a proposal to change the state constitution.

The proposed amendment is aimed at union shop agreements between labor organizations and employers requiring workers to join the union, usually within 30 days, to keep their jobs.

Sponsors claim the amendment would shift compulsory union membership to a voluntary basis but labor leaders assert "right to work" is a misnomer designed for union-busting.

"Ohioans For Right-To-Work," an organization recently incorporated by State Rep. Elton Kile of Plain City and others, is completing arrangements to circulate petitions needing 354,210 valid signatures to place the amendment on ballots.

A summary of the amendment, approved by the attorney general for form, bore the required 100 signatures but they lacked addresses. Labor officials and their lawyers examined the summary closely without saying whether they would attack its sufficiency.

"We are aware of the fact," said John Rooney, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO Council, "that the matter was presented to the attorney general without addresses of the signers and we will continue to watch the legal aspects."

"There are a number of points that at one time or another might result in court matters in the whole affair."

Counsel for Kile's organization declined comment.

State officials said they expected court action to keep the issue off ballots because of the defeat administered a labor-initiated law two years ago.

That proposal, to sanction supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) and boost state jobless payments, was turned down by voters nearly 2 to 1. Unions have since turned to the courts in an attempt to get "SUB" pay in Ohio.

One official estimated that expenses incidental to obtaining signatures to place the amendment on ballots might average $1 apiece although sponsors, who would foot the bill, propose to use volunteer petition circulators.

Sponsors declined comment on the cost but said state headquarters for the amendment drive probably would be established soon in Columbus.

Signatures, representing 10 per cent of the total vote cast for governor last year, are required from half of Ohio's 88 counties. At least five percent of the gubernatorial vote in each of the 44 counties must be obtained to qualify the petitions.

Each part-petition must contain 50 signatures from a single county and must be filed by Aug. 6. If the petitions are found to be insufficient within 40 days before the Nov. 4 election, 10 days will be allowed to obtain more names.

Circulators themselves must obtain signatures of qualified electors, who can withdraw their names prior to a check by election boards.

The secretary of state is required to print pamphlets containing the text of the amendment, and arguments for and against it, for mailing to voters throughout the state before the election. That may cost $100,000.

Kile's committee will prepare arguments in favor of the amendment. The governor will appoint a committee to draft arguments in opposition in the absence of a legislative session. The arguments must not exceed 300 words and must be filed with the secretary of state at least 60 days before election.

NEW SMYRNA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Three children were passengers in a runaway plane that bounced across the municipal airport Sunday and nosed down in a wooded area a short distance from the field. None was seriously hurt.

Collier was knocked down as the plane headed across the field. The children—Claude, 10; Fred, 9; and Linda, 7—crawled from the wreckage unaided.

Males Cast Votes For 1907 Fashions

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Virginia L. Gambrell, director of the Dallas Historical Society Museum, says "women haven't been dressing to suit men much of the time since 1830."

She said during the State Fair, 26,000 male votes were cast at an exhibit titled "What Do Men Like in Women's Fashions." Female garb since 1830 was exhibited.

Mrs. Gambrell, in the museum's annual report to the city council Monday, said "the favorite was a 1907 dress which was softly feminine—and left no doubt that it contained a lady, not potatoes."

The French announced Sunday they had seized 150 tons of arms and ammunition from the Yugoslav cargo - passenger ship Slovenija after French naval units shunted the ship into Oran.

Businessmen To Study Ike's Report Closely

Nation's Economic Status, Recession Causing Concern

NEW YORK (AP)—Businessmen will scan the President's economic report to the nation Monday for something more than the statistics on the present situation and predictions of an upturn at some later date.

There have been plenty of these to scan already. The statistics indicate the recession has dipped deeper than first anticipated for this date. The experts vary in their guessing about the future and economic predictions are about the least exact science we have.

What the businessman—and his employees and his customers—will be looking for is what the administration plans to do in the present situation and what it would do if the slump widens and deepens.

Both programs are becoming clearer now on such matters as taxes, pump priming, money policy, public works and deficit financing.

The administration would like to balance the next budget even if that now looks like an outside chance. To that end, its present plan is to urge Congress to reenact the present high tax rates.

That means a move to get Congress again to extend by one year the 52 per cent corporate income levy first enacted as an emergency measure in the Korean war. The rate is scheduled to drop to 47 per cent July 1.

The administration also wants the excise taxes similarly marked as emergency to be voted for another year. These selective sales taxes make your autos, cigarettes, liquor and train rides cost more.

As the economy stands now there is what the administration wants. But it seems prepared, if the recession really starts rolling, to cut taxes both as a relief to business and as a means of giving the consumer more to spend. Congress seems even more prepared to do so. This is an election year.

Tight money gradually is turning to easy money. The federal reserve is lowering its interest charges to banks and allowing stock traders to buy more on the cuff.

The administration is priming the home building pump by easing up on credit terms and by releasing funds for public housing.

It is indicating that it won't shy from deficit financing if needed to maintain its increased defense spending plans.

Pump priming is a by product of other policies—increased defense spending, the big highway program, proposed financial aids to education.

But the immediate effect of the President's economic report may well be psychological. In his talks he stresses the "solid grounds for confidence." If this proves catching, businessmen might reverse their policy of trimming inventories and expansion plans, and consumers might reverse their policy of saving more and buying carefully.

When that happens, timing the turn in the economic tide will be much easier—both for the business experts and the President's advisors.

Congress To Tell Ohio Road Future

CINCINNATI (AP)—Gov. C. William O'Neill says Congress will decide if federal financing will be available for Ohio to continue its record-breaking highway building program.

The governor told the Citizens' Development Committee in an address Monday night that federal financing may reduce Ohio's road-building next year.

But he said: "We are quite sure, however, that we can move along this year as quickly as plans can be developed and right-of-way acquired."

He said state-wide road projects started or under contract last year totaled 290.5 million dollars, or 67 million over the previous record.

U.S. 'Hungry' For Know-How

Radio Star Reviews 'Answer, Please' Show

NEW YORK (AP)—Possibly never before have so many Americans wanted to know so much about such a great variety of subjects.

One result of the growing desire for information is the emergence of Walter Cronkite on CBS Radio in a program called "Answer, Please!"

Definitely not a quiz program, it bravely undertakes to toss nubbins of knowledge to the public mind five nights a week.

The idea evolved naturally, Cronkite says, as a means of answering questions which listeners ask the year around. By the second week of the program's life letters were coming in at the rate of 6,000 weekly.

Radio is a much better means of answering questions than a TV program, says the television-seasoned Cronkite, because you can answer more questions more completely without making a production of each. Television would require a more complicated and costly operation—and the answers would be the same.

Thus far the predominating questions have concerned science in general and science in relation to world affairs.

Queries about the White House and the Eisenhower family have turned "Answer, Please!" researchers into experts on the Presidential life.

The specific questions are a cinch. But when someone asks: "Will we ever get ahead of Russia? Will we ever have war again?" Cronkite eases out of it by replying:

"If I knew, I'd be working for the Pentagon instead of CBS Radio."

Space: a Cradle For Human Boons

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Space is tomorrow's cradle of fantastic new human boons.

It can bring better forecasting or even control of weather, secrets of stars and moon and Mars, world-wide TV, totally unpredictable comforts and powers.

Or space is tomorrow's battleground of a savage, silent war. This fateful decision underlies President Eisenhower's appeal to Soviet Premier Bulganin that nations dedicate space to peaceful uses.

Eminent scientists, American and Russian alike, predict men will fly in space, aboard space cruisers or platforms circling the earth.

Labor Ponders Court Action in 'Right' Dispute

Unions Hope To Avoid State Vote on Change In Ohio Constitution

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Labor leaders who failed to win approval for supplemental unemployment benefits at the polls in 1955 may seek to avert a popular vote on the union shop issue this year.

Union officials hint they may take court action to prevent "Ohioans For Right-To-Work" from placing on November election ballots a proposal to change the state constitution.

The proposed amendment is aimed at union shop agreements between labor organizations and employers requiring workers to join the union, usually within 30 days, to keep their jobs.

Sponsors claim the amendment would shift compulsory union membership to a voluntary basis but labor leaders assert "right to work" is a misnomer designed for union-busting.

"Ohioans For Right-To-Work," an organization recently incorporated by State Rep. Elton Kile of Plain City and others, is completing arrangements to circulate petitions needing 354,210 valid signatures to place the amendment on ballots.

A summary of the amendment, approved by the attorney general for form, bore the required 100 signatures but they lacked addresses. Labor officials and their lawyers examined the summary closely without saying whether they would attack its sufficiency.

"We are aware of the fact," said John Rooney, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio CIO Council, "that the matter was presented to the attorney general without addresses of the signers and we will continue to watch the legal aspects."

"There are a number of points that at one time or another might result in court matters in the whole affair."

Counsel for Kile's organization declined comment. State officials said they expected court action to keep the issue off ballots because of the defeat administered a labor-initiated law two years ago.

That proposal, to sanction supplemental unemployment benefits (SUB) and boost state jobless payments, was turned down by voters nearly 2 to 1. Unions have since turned to the courts in an attempt to get "SUB" pay in Ohio.

One official estimated that expenses incidental to obtaining signatures to place the amendment on ballots might average $1 apiece although sponsors, who would foot the bill, propose to use volunteer petition circulators.

Sponsors declined comment on the cost but said state headquarters for the amendment drive probably would be established soon in Columbus.

Signatures, representing 10 percent of the total vote cast for governor last year, are required from half of Ohio's 88 counties. At least five percent of the gubernatorial vote in each of the 44 counties must be obtained to qualify the petitions.

Each part-petition must contain 50 signatures from a single county and must be filed by Aug. 6. If the petitions are found to be insufficient within 40 days before the Nov. 4 election, 10 days will be allowed to obtain more names.

Circulators themselves must obtain signatures of qualified electors, who can withdraw their names prior to a check by election boards.

The secretary of state is required to print pamphlets containing the text of the amendment, and arguments for and against it, for mailing to voters throughout the state before the election. That may cost $100,000.

Kile's committee will prepare arguments in favor of the amendment. The governor will appoint a committee to draft arguments in opposition in the absence of a legislative session. The arguments must not exceed 300 words and must be filed with the secretary of state at least 60 days before election.

Businessmen To Study Ike's Report Closely

Nation's Economic Status, Recession Causing Concern

NEW YORK (AP) — Businessmen will scan the President's economic report to the nation Monday for something more than the statistics on the present situation and predictions of an upturn at some later date.

There have been plenty of these to scan already. The statistics indicate the recession has dipped deeper than first anticipated for this date. The experts vary in their guessing about the future and economic predictions are about the least exact science we have.

What the businessman—and his employees and his customers—will be looking for is what the administration plans to do in the present situation and what it would do if the slump widens and deepens.

Both programs are becoming clearer now on such matters as taxes, pump priming, money policy, public works and deficit financing.

The administration would like to balance the next budget even if that now looks like an outside chance. To that end, its present plan is to urge Congress to reenact the present high tax rates.

That means a move to get Congress again to extend by one year the 52 per cent corporate income levy first enacted as an emergency measure in the Korean war. The rate is scheduled to drop to 47 per cent July 1.

The administration also wants the excise taxes similarly marked as emergency to be voted for another year. These selective sales taxes make your autos, cigarettes, liquor and train rides cost more.

As the economy stands now that is what the administration wants. But it seems prepared, if the recession really starts rolling, to cut taxes both as a relief to business and as a means of giving the consumer more to spend. Congress seems even more prepared to do so. This is an election year.

Tight money gradually is turning to easy money. The federal reserve is lowering its interest charges to banks and allowing stock traders to buy more on the cuff.

The administration is priming the home building pump by easing up on credit terms and by releasing funds for public housing. It is indicating that it won't shy from deficit financing if needed to maintain its increased defense spending plans.

Pump priming is a by product of other policies — increased defense spending, the big highway program, proposed financial aids to education.

But the immediate effect of the President's economic report may well be psychological. In his talks he stresses the "solid grounds for confidence." If this proves catching, businessmen might reverse their policy of trimming inventories and expansion plans, and consumers might reverse their policy of saving more and buying carefully.

When that happens, timing the turn in the economic tide will be much easier — both for the business experts and the President's advisors.

Space: a Cradle For Human Boons

NEW YORK (AP) — Space is tomorrow's cradle of fantastic new human boons.

It can bring better forecasting or even control of weather, secrets of stars and moon and Mars, world-wide TV, totally unpredictable comforts and powers.

Defense Spending Fuse Lighted

prototypes, and that it will be at least two years before there is a measurable effect on employment.

Experts in the aircraft industry estimate that it will be seven years before North American gets into full production on the bomber, if it ever does. The doubt arises from the current conviction that when a new weapon is approved for production, it is already obsolete.

Defense spending will continue to be a stimulant, as it is today in many communities across the country. But increased spending cannot be translated into a prosperity prop over night.

Highways Help Business

Louis S. Rothschild, undersecretary of commerce for transportation, says that "in terms of construction, our federal highway program is really just beginning to get under way."

He points out that the program was set up under "the best bit of government financing that has been done," and that receipts from taxes to pay for the program already are available and are coming in faster than they are being used.

The only delay so far has been reluctance on the part of the states to match federal funds.

Forecasts of considerably higher defense spending this year are accepted by many conclusion-jumpers as proof that the economy will be given a king-size stimulant before 1958 ends.

While the stimulant undoubtedly will be planted, those familiar with the workings of defense contracts doubt that it will come to seed so soon.

An example is the intercontinental bomber, WS-10A, recently awarded to the North American Aviation. In response to great expectations from the contract in the Los Angeles area, North American emphasized that the initial job is to develop one or two

This program is one of the important parts of the economic picture for 1958. There is need for the boost that a large-scale highway building program will provide.

Use of public works became a part of the federal government's plan to ease economic difficulties during the depression of the 1930s. When this highway plan was drawn there was no "recession" on the horizon; but the fact that it was not designed as a prop for economic activity does not prevent it from being one.

Insomnia Relief Costs Run High

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That Americans pay $100 million a year for the relief of insomnia. The late W. C. Fields found the best cure for this ailment years ago; his prescription: "Get more sleep."

That British horticulturists say freaks among Britain's flowers have increased five times normal in the last year; they believe this may be due to radioactive fallout.

That Kate Smith, after 27 years, is dropping "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" as her theme song; she is just plain tired of it after singing it 10,000 times.

That the Duke of Edinburgh, who ought to know, once said, "Discipline is the force which causes a man to play the part required of him in the organization to which he belongs."

That in Great Britain each year more people commit suicide than are killed in highway accidents.

That you will blink your eyes about two million times in 1958.

That a Sixth Avenue shop here specializing in back numbers of magazines and newspapers has this sign: "Read Yesterday's News Tomorrow!"

That tea drinking Tokyo now has 4,000 coffee shops.

That a researcher has found the divorce rate among penguins is about 10 per cent; they get along together better than people.

That baking soda is an excellent fire extinguisher, particularly if the fire is in your stomach.

That comedian George De Witt sums up the march of science thusly: "Modern man has the genius to make rain, but lacks the common sense to come out of it."

That in England a run in a woman's stocking is called a ladder.

That it can't be said the U.S. has let down the Hungarian refugees altogether; during 1957, scholarships totalling more than $1½ million were awarded to 765 of these young fighters for freedom.

That in Morocco young boys catch butterflies and rub the wings against their cheeks in the belief this will speed the growth of a beard, which is a symbol of strength there.

That if all businessmen filed copies of their expense accounts with their income tax returns, it would make a paper mountain 15 miles high.

That it was Francis Bacon who observed long ago, "Prosperity is not without any fears and distastes; and adversity is not without comforts and hopes."

Fear of Failure Helped Navy

By George Sokolsky

The testimony of Adm. Hyman Rickover before the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee was startling in its human quality and in its tale of the effort of an individual to serve his country by modernizing military equipment while all the time fighting off a rear guard action of older officers who had forgotten that the means of war constantly change. The nuclear submarine was the achievement of the organizing genius of Adm. Rickover.

Adm. Rickover told Sen. Johnson's committee that the German air force during World War II had gained the reputation of being the most capable research and development organization in the world. After the war, Americans made a study of this superiority. From these studies, Adm. Rickover reached the conclusion that for research and development, it is essential the naval officers be as strong technically as administratively.

To show how little the Navy thought of nuclear problems, Rickover and several other naval officers were sent to Oak Ridge in 1946 to learn reactor technology. After great effort and much scheming to overcome opposition, they were welded into a team in preparation for work on the "Nautilus," which was already in Rickover's mind. Rickover had recommended that this team of highly specialized men be kept together to work on a nuclear-driven submarine. But let Adm. Rickover tell the story:

"However, the group was broken up as soon as we came back, and we were split. In fact, the thought at that time was to not let me stay in Washington but to send me to Oak Ridge as a declassification officer, some clerical job.

"But fortunately there were other voices in Washington. I was kept on, and I was assigned this job all by myself, and given an office in an ex-ladies powder room." This was in 1947.

Adm. Rickover recounted: "As soon as it was definite that I would stay in Washington, I was determined that the first thing to do was to get a letter from Adm. Nimitz, who was then the Chief of Naval Operations, to authorize the design, development, and construction of an atomic powerplant for a submarine. This letter took me three months to get signed, and it became my hunting license. I now had a hunting license, but there were no deer around. I had no money."

This is cited as an example of the things that happen that made it possible for the Russians to defeat us in a field in which Americans have always been pre-eminent, engineering and manufacturing.

It took three years, from the time the small group of naval officers were sent to Oak Ridge before all the arrangements could be made between the Bureau of Ships of the Navy, the Chief of Naval Operations and the Atomic Energy Commission to make it possible for an organization, jointly controlled, to come into existence to plan a nuclear submarine.

There were no precedents and therefore Adm. Rickover could go ahead without worrying about rules and regulations. As he testified:

"We had no particular contract design for the prototype. We don't know what it means. We just said here is a job to be done and we are not bound by any rules that people have written up in books on research and development. We said we want to build a nuclear-powered submarine. We will build one ashore first."

Again, this colloquy took place: "Mr. Weis, (chief counsel) What I was trying to get at, Admiral, was whether you followed the usual procedure that is followed in the military in getting this job done."

"Adm. Rickover. No, sir. No usual procedures will accomplish unusual jobs. No, sir."

"Mr. Weis. How were you able to do that? How were you able to avoid following the usual procedures?"

"Adm. Rickover. One of the main reasons was that there were so many people who were certain the project would fail, and they did not want to be associated with it. This was one of the most wonderful things. "It is quite different today but at that time nearly everybody knew it was going to fail so they let us alone completely, almost completely, so we were able to do the job."

It is all so human, too human. We got the nuclear submarine ready and ahead of time because those who craved success would not touch what looked like a crack-pot idea.

BEN HECHT, reminiscing about his old friend and collaborator, the late Charlie MacArthur, writes, "In the grin that slightly turned the edge of his lips, and in the foggy look in his eyes, there lurked always the promise of 'lively doings.' This was a pet phrase of his. He treasured a postal card sent him by Hilda, the cook for the MacArthur household, who had returned in 1938 to her home in Berlin. 'Dear Mr. MacArthur,' wrote the effervescent Teuton, 'I am happy to be home. Adolf Hitler is a fine boss and there's lots of lively doings!'"

A 9-year-old acting prodigy turned up for a TV audition. "What do you do when you're not acting?" asked the casting director. "I watch TV," answered the kid. "And when you're not watching TV?" "I listen to the radio." "And when you're not listening to the radio?" The kid answered blithely, "My ma sends me to the unemployment insurance office."

Dress in Winter Important

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Don't bundle up your child too warmly this winter.

Overdressing a child who plans to play in the snow, might actually cause him to develop a cold. Here's why:

When a youngster is dressed too snugly under layers of shirts, mufflers and a heavy coat or snowsuit, he might easily perspire as he romps about having a good time.

If a young boy or girl becomes tired and warm while playing in snow, you know what he or she is likely to do. The simplest way to rest and cool off at the same time is to drop into a snowbank.

That cold, wet snow may give him a severe chill. And chilling as you have been advised countless times, very often leads to colds and pneumonia.

To avert such possibilities, the best thing to do is to put fewer clothes on a tot, especially if his outer garment is a snowsuit with tight bands at the wrists and ankles.

Watch your cavorting youngster. When he appears tired, make him come into the house to rest.

We have to tell children what to do, of course, since they must be guided by older and wiser persons. But I'm afraid most of you must be told how to dress in winter, too. You must dress not only for the winter, but for your activity as well. If you are going out to shovel snow, you can expect to work up a sweat. So don't dress as warmly as you would go to work where you may have to spend some time on a windy corner waiting for a bus.

You can get a thorough chilling just standing outside if your clothing is too tight.

When you do get aboard a bus, train or other heated conveyance, be sure to open your outer clothing. When you go indoors, take it off.

Even if you are going to stay inside for a few minutes, take off your coat. If you don't, you probably will begin to perspire.

Stepping outside into freezing weather when you are overheated is almost like walking into a refrigerator in your bathing suit.

Don't take any chances. Let's use a little common sense this winter.

Question and Answer
C. W.: I have epilepsy. Is there any danger of my child having epilepsy?

Answer: Your child has only one in a 100 chance of having chronic epilepsy.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has talked three times recently about reorganizing the Defense Department. It's still not clear what he intends to do. He talked speed, then seemed not to be talking speed, and now talks speed again.

It's not clear what anyone else, including Congress, intends to do about it, either. One thing is sure: the department has been under blazing attack for red tape, doubletalk, delay, and interservice rivalry.

In particular the joint chiefs of staff (JCS) system has been attacked — and defended. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, appointed by Eisenhower, is chairman of the JCS, which is made up of the heads of each of the three armed services.

The four chiefs usually reach agreement by compromise, with Twining not voting. This is the main complaint against the system: It has a built-in method for each of the chiefs to angle and wangle for his own branch of the service.

The result: various proposals to abolish the JCS and substitute either a single military boss or perhaps a general staff of top officers who would be divorced from their individual branches of the armed forces.

There's mixed feeling in Congress about (A) scrapping the JCS, (B) setting up a single military chief, (C) making changes, and (D) not making changes. And military men themselves disagree on what to do, if anything.

Twining says he wants to keep an open mind about changes in the present system. Adm. Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations and therefore a member of the JCS, defends the present arrangement and opposes the idea of a single commander for all three services.

Yet Lt. Gen. James Gavin, the Army's missile boss who's quitting the service for various reasons, wants the JCS junked and an advisory general staff of top officers substituted for it.

Eisenhower himself in 1947 proposed a single chief of staff but Congress preferred the JCS. Where he stands now he hasn't said.

In his State of the Union Message Jan. 9 he said his own conclusions on what to do now would soon be "finalized," that he would take the necessary executive action, and that he would send his recommendations to Congress.

But in his Jan. 15 news conference he seemed to think plenty of time was needed. He said his own convictions on reorganizing the Pentagon "cannot be the final answer," and he anticipated "many conferences."

Monday night in a speech to Republicans in Chicago he again indictated a need for speed. He talked of "prompt and effective modernization" of the Defense Department.

The Democratic leaders of House and Senate—Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts and Sen. Johnson of Texas — have both called for Eisenhower to take full responsibility for reorganizing the Pentagon.

Johnson, whose Senate subcommittee has been investigating the whole defense setup, has expressed no fixed ideas of his own but he did demand action "to knock heads together" in the Pentagon.

Meanwhile, Secretary of Defense McElroy has appointed a committee of citizens and Army brass, past and present, to see what they think.

Different Nationalities Still Celebrating New Years

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—While most of you have probably forgotten your New Year's celebration, capital party-goers will be helping to celebrate others — Chinese, Russian, Iranian—right up through spring.

Right now Washington's large Chinese community is observing the advent of the Year of the Dog, in the waning of the Year of the Rooster at the end of January. This is usually a 15-day event and much less hangoverish than our own January clambake, as is the Iranian New Year which comes with the beginning of spring, March 21.

Sun Neen, as the Chinese celebration is called, is observed by most of the 117,000 Chinese living in the United States, though not with the ritual of the old days before the Communists took over the mainland of China and the Nationalists fled to Formosa.

Christian Chinese, of course, no longer worship the special deities for New Year, namely: the God of Longevity, God of the Kitchen, God of Wealth and Door Gods, but they still enjoy the holiday feasting, the exchange of gifts and visits; the dragon dances, and the shooting of firecrackers.

Mrs. S. H. Tan, wife of the Chinese minister, who teaches classes in Chinese cooking at the local YWCA, says a favorite dessert in her home is a Chinese New Year's dish—eight treasure pudding. Being a Christian, she usually prepares this in celebration of Christmas. The dessert got its name from the small objects some Chinese put in the pudding. These include the dragon pearl, a charm against fire; Chinese coins, a sign of prosperity, and little books to ward off evil spirits.

Among the children, the favorite gift is money wrapped in bright red paper, a symbol of riches for the year ahead donated on behalf of the God of Wealth.

Queen Victoria frequently exchanged letters with sharpshooter Annie Oakley after their first meeting in London.

prototypes, and that it will be at least two years before there is a measurable effect on employment.

Experts in the aircraft industry estimate that it will be seven years before North American gets into full production on the bomber, if it ever does. The doubt arises from the current conviction that when a new weapon is approved for production, it is already obsolescent.

Defense spending will continue to be a stimulant, as it is today in many communities across the country. But increased spending cannot be translated into a prosperity prop over night.

Forecasts of considerably higher defense spending this year are accepted by many conclusion-jumpers as proof that the economy will be given a king-size stimulant before 1958 ends.

While the stimulant undoubtedly will be planted, those familiar with the workings of defense contracts doubt that it will come to seed so soon.

An example is the intercontinental bomber, WS-10A, recently awarded to the North American Aviation. In response to great expectations from the contract in the Los Angeles area, North American emphasized that the initial job is to develop one or two

Highways Help Business

Louis S. Rothschild, undersecretary of commerce for transportation, says that "in terms of construction, our federal highway program is really just beginning to get under way."

He points out that the program was set up under "the best bit of government financing that has been done," and that receipts from taxes to pay for the program already are available and are coming in faster than they are being used.

The only delay so far has been reluctance on the part of the states to match federal funds.

This program is one of the important parts of the economic picture for 1958. There is need for the boost that a large-scale highway building program will provide.

Use of public works became a part of the federal government's plan to ease economic difficulties during the depression of the 1930s. When this highway plan was drawn there was no "recession" on the horizon; but the fact that it was not designed as a prop for economic activity does not prevent it from being one.

Insomnia Relief Costs Run High

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

That Americans pay $100 million a year for the relief of insomnia. The late W. C. Fields found the best cure for this ailment years ago; his prescription: "Get more sleep."

That British horticulturists say freaks among Britain's flowers have increased five times normal in the last year; they believe this may be due to radioactive fallout.

That Kate Smith, after 27 years, is dropping "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" as her theme song; she is just plain tired of it after singing it 10,000 times.

That the Duke of Edinburgh, who ought to know, once said, "Discipline is the force which causes a man to play the part required of him in the organization to which he belongs."

That in Great Britain each year more people commit suicide than are killed in highway accidents.

That you will blink your eyes about two million times in 1958.

That a Sixth Avenue shop here specializing in back numbers of magazines and newspapers has this sign: "Read Yesterday's News Tomorrow!"

That tea drinking Tokyo now has 4,000 coffee shops.

That a researcher has found the divorce rate among penguins is about 10 per cent; they get along together better than people.

That baking soda is an excellent fire extinguisher, particularly if the fire is in your stomach.

That comedian George De Witt sums up the march of science thusly: "Modern man has the genius to make rain, but lacks the common sense to come out of it."

That in England a run in a

woman's stocking is called a ladder.

That it can't be said the U.S. has let down the Hungarian refugees altogether; during 1957, scholarships totalling more than $1½ million were awarded to 765 of these young fighters for freedom.

That in Morocco young boys catch butterflies and rub the wings against their cheeks in the belief this will speed the growth of a beard, which is a symbol of strength there.

That if all businessmen filed copies of their expense accounts with their income tax returns, it would make a paper mountain 15 miles high.

That it was Francis Bacon who observed long ago, "Prosperity is not without any fears and distastes; and adversity is not without comforts and hopes."

Fear of Failure Helped Navy

By George Sokolsky

The testimony of Adm. Hyman Rickover before the Senate Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee was startling in its human quality and in its tale of the effort of an individual to serve his country by modernizing military equipment while all the time fighting off a rear guard action of older officers who had forgotten that the means of war constantly change. The nuclear submarine was the achievement of the organizing genius of Adm. Rickover.

Adm. Rickover told Sen. Johnson's committee that the German air force during World War II had gained the reputation of being the most capable research and development organization in the world. After the war, Americans made a study of this superiority. From these studies, Adm. Rickover reached the conclusion that for research and development, it is essential the naval officers be as strong technically as administratively.

To show how little the Navy thought of nuclear problems, Rickover and several other naval officers were sent to Oak Ridge in 1946 to learn reactor technology. After great effort and much scheming to overcome opposition, they were welded into a team in preparation for work on the "Nautilus," which was already in Rickover's mind. Rickover had recommended that this team of highly specialized men be kept together to work on a nuclear-driven submarine. But let Adm. Rickover tell the story:

"However, the group was broken up as soon as we came back, and we were split. In fact, the thought at that time was to not let me stay in Washington but to send me to Oak Ridge as a declassification officer, some clerical job.

"But fortunately there were other voices in Washington. I was kept on, and I was assigned this job all by myself, and given an office in an ex-ladies powder room." This was in 1947.

Adm. Rickover recounted: "As soon as it was definite that I would stay in Washington, I was determined that the first thing to do was to get a letter from Adm. Nimitz, who was then the Chief of Naval Operations, to authorize the design, development, and construction of an atomic powerplant for a submarine. This letter took me three months to get signed, and it became my hunting license. I now had a hunting license, but there were no deer around. I had no money."

This is cited as an example of the things that happen that made it possible for the Russians to defeat us in a field in which Americans have always been pre-eminent, engineering and manufacturing.

It took three years, from the time the small group of naval officers were sent to Oak Ridge before all the arrangements could be made between the Bureau of Ships of the Navy, the Chief of Naval Operations and the Atomic Energy Commission to make it possible for an organization, jointly controlled, to come into existence to plan a nuclear submarine.

There were no precedents and therefore Adm. Rickover could go ahead without worrying about rules and regulations. As he testified:

"We had no particular contract design for the prototype. We don't know what it means. We just said here is a job to be done and we are not bound by any rules that people have written up in books on research and development. We said we want to build a nuclear-powered submarine. We will build one ashore first."

Again, this colloquy took place:

"Mr. Weis (chief counsel): What I was trying to get at, Admiral, was whether you followed the usual procedure that is followed in the military in getting this job done.

"Adm. Rickover. No, sir. No usual procedures will accomplish unusual jobs. No, sir.

"Mr. Weis. How were you able to do that? How were you able to avoid following the usual procedures?

"Adm. Rickover. One of the main reasons was that there were so many people who were certain the project would fail, and they did not want to be associated with it. This was one of the most wonderful things.

"It is quite different today but at that time nearly everybody knew it was going to fail so they let us alone completely, almost completely, so we were able to do the job."

It is all so human, too human. We got the nuclear submarine ready and ahead of time because those who craved success would not touch what looked like a crack-pot idea.

LAFF-A-DAY

"I understand he's independently wealthy!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

BEN HECHT, reminiscing about his old friend and collaborator, the late Charlie MacArthur, writes, "In the grin that slightly turned the edge of his lips, and in the foggy look in his eyes, there lurked always the promise of 'live-it-doings'." This was a pet phrase of his. He treasured a postal card sent him by Hilda, the cook for the MacArthur household, who had returned in 1938 to her home in Berlin. "Dear Mr. MacArthur," wrote the effervescent Teuton, "I am happy to be home. Adolf Hitler is a fine boss and there's lots of lively doings!"

A 9-year-old acting prodigy turned up for a TV audition. "What do you do when you're not acting?" asked the casting director. "I watch TV," answered the kid. "And when you're not watching TV?" "I listen to the radio." "And when you're not listening to the radio?" The kid answered blithely, "My ma sends me to the unemployment insurance office."

Dress in Winter Important

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Don't bundle up your child too warmly this winter.

Overdressing a child who plans to play in the snow, might actually cause him to develop a cold. Here's why:

When a youngster is dressed too snugly under layers of shirts, mufflers and a heavy coat or snowsuit, he might easily perspire as he romps about having a good time.

If a young boy or girl becomes tired and warm while playing in snow, you know what he or she is likely to do. The simplest way to rest and cool off at the same time is to drop into a snowbank.

That cold, wet snow may give him a severe chill. And chilling as you have been advised countless times, very often leads to colds and pneumonia.

To avert such possibilities, the best thing to do is to put fewer clothes on a tot, especially if his outer garment is a snowsuit with tight bands at the wrists and ankles.

Watch your cavorting youngster. When he appears tired, make him come into the house to rest.

We have to tell children what to do, of course, since they must be guided by older and wiser persons. But I'm afraid most of you must be told how to dress in winter, too.

You must dress not only for the winter, but for your activity as well. If you are going out to shovel snow, you can expect to work up a sweat. So don't dress as warmly as you would to go to work where you may have to spend some time on a windy corner waiting for a bus.

You can get a thorough chilling just standing outside if your clothing is too tight.

When you do get aboard a bus, train or other heated conveyance, be sure to open your outer clothing. When you go indoors, take it off.

Even if you are going to stay inside for a few minutes, take off your coat. If you don't, you probably will begin to perspire.

Stepping outside into freezing weather when you are overheated is almost like walking into a refrigerator in your bathing suit.

Don't take any chances. Let's use a little common sense this winter.

Question and Answer

C. W.: I have epilepsy. Is there any danger of my child having epilepsy?

Answer: Your child has only one in a 100 chance of having chronic epilepsy.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has talked three times recently about reorganizing the Defense Department. It's still not clear what he intends to do. He talked speed, then seemed not to be talking speed, and now talks speed again.

It's not clear what anyone else, including Congress, intends to do about it, either. One thing is sure: the department has been under blinding attack for red tape, doubletalk, delay, and interservice rivalry.

In particular the joint chiefs of staff (JCS) system has been attacked — and defended. Gen. Nathan F. Twining, appointed by Eisenhower, is chairman of the JCS, which is made up of the heads of each of the three armed services.

The four chiefs usually reach agreement by compromise, with Twining not voting. This is the main complaint against the system: It has a built-in method for each of the chiefs to angle and wangle for his own branch of the service.

The result: various proposals to abolish the JCS and substitute either a single military boss or perhaps a general staff of top officers who would be divorced from their individual branches of the armed forces.

Economic Pressures Affect Red Deals in Latin Nations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Economic pressures appear to be blasting holes in Latin America's reserve toward any deals with Russia and its satellites.

This week an official Argentine trade mission headed for the Communist-ruled lands of Europe.

In Brazil, important voices were being heard in favor of trade with Soviet Russia.

Chile, likewise, was warming to the idea of closer trade and cultural relations with the Soviets despite lack of diplomatic links.

The Argentine mission head, Undersecretary of Industry Raul Ondarts, has stressed his country's need for capital goods, especially oil industry equipment. He contends that the source of the needed goods is irrelevant.

Economists estimate Argentina needs at least a billion dollars in foreign credits to get back on its feet after the dictatorship of Juan Peron. Only a fraction of that amount has been obtained in the free world.

Brazil is apprehensive over the possibility of a severe economic depression brought on by falling coffee prices.

Russia has offered Brazil oil equipment and technical assistance.

Steadily declining copper prices have prompted a revision in Chile's long-standing distaste for dealings with the Communists.

Income from copper exports account for more than 80 per cent of Chile's budget and falling prices have brought severe economic strain.

The ban on copper sales to Soviet Russia has been lifted.

Uruguay is the apparent base for Russia's activities in Latin America. The embassy staff in

WONDERFUL THINGS HAPPEN WITH ELECTRICITY

WASHINGTON (AP) — An American scientist proposed today that the United States advance its own research by making greater use of discoveries by the Russians.

The scientist, Dr. Lloyd V. Berkner, president of Associated Universities Inc. which carries on research projects, criticized what he said was inadequate government dissemination of science data. He called for a wide range of federal moves to step up the flow of important information.

While U. S. translations of Soviet science writings generally lag, he added, federal bureaus have been stamping secret some public Russian articles they do translate. One Soviet paper wound up being translated seven times by different groups, he said.

Economic Pressures Affect Red Deals in Latin Nations

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Economic pressures appear to be blasting holes in Latin America's reserve toward any deals with Russia and its satellites.

This week an official Argentine trade mission headed for the Communist-ruled lands of Europe.

In Brazil, important voices were being heard in favor of trade with Soviet Russia.

Chile, likewise, was warming to the idea of closer trade and cultural relations with the Soviets despite lack of diplomatic links.

The Argentine mission head, Undersecretary of Industry Raul Ondarts, has stressed his country's need for capital goods, especially oil industry equipment. He contends that the source of the needed goods is irrelevant.

Economists estimate Argentina needs at least a billion dollars in foreign credits to get back on its feet after the dictatorship of Juan Peron. Only a fraction of that amount has been obtained in the free world.

Brazil is apprehensive over the possibility of a severe economic depression brought on by falling coffee prices.

Russia has offered Brazil oil equipment and technical assistance.

Steadily declining copper prices have prompted a revision in Chile's long-standing distaste for dealings with the Communists.

Income from copper exports account for more than 80 per cent of Chile's budget and falling prices have brought severe economic strain.

The ban on copper sales to Soviet Russia has been lifted.

Straw Vote

By SUSAN BARDEN

The latest collection of resort bags shows a variety and usefulness that will tempt anyone who is bound for a tropical vacation. And this year the carriers come in a group of new shapes and fabrics which include straws, synthetic horse hairs and man-made fibers.

These bags have the appearance and silhouette of styles such as satchels or deep boxy totes with double handles for that casual look.

There are also pouches that are molded and rounded in contour with frames set so that no metal is visible, or frames that are entirely covered with self straw, carrying the theme of oneness which is a new look this year.

The three silhouettes pictured here all win the straw vote.

The tote is roomy enough to carry all of the everyday essentials so important whether at home or abroad, and it also has space for such additions as a swim suit, bathing cap and sun tan lotion. The colors are white, black, navy, gray, beige and toast.

Another big beauty is the straw pouch with a single rigid straw-covered handle with a many-petaled hand-crocheted rose posed with stem and leaves, giving the appearance of a large corsage on one corner.

A third bag is slightly smaller and features novel ring handles. Its individual rosette designs are hand-crocheted together to make an all-over lace effect. The pouch is beautifully lined.

HAND-BRAIDED STRAW is used for a pretty pouch decorated by a large hand-crocheted rose.

Don't Let 'Em See You "Without Your Face On"

By JEANNE D'ARCY
King Features Syndicate
"You look so beautiful I didn't recognize you!"

Is that statement a compliment? Not to our way of thinking! It implies that, last-time seen, the party in question looked a fright.

Yet there are women who hear such comments. They go along, day in and day out, appearing plain and dreary. Along comes the annual office dance and they go all out in preparations, arrive glittering with glamour, are scarcely recognized by co-workers.

There is, for example, a teenager, Shirley, we know who had just such an experience.

She met a boy she knew at a church dance but he didn't know her, and small wonder.

The lad in question held an after-school and Saturday job at the local grocery store. Sure he'd seen Shirley doing the shopping for her Mother, but it was a Shirley in slacks and a leather jacket, a kerchief tied over her head as a not-very-successful camouflage for pin curls.

This creature bore little resemblance to the prettied-up-for-the-party Shirley.

It was a pleasant surprise for the lad and a lesson for Shirley. Her shopping appearance improved considerably as a result.

The motto of the story is to take pride in appearance every day, not just for special occasions.

What's more, if you're not a natural beauty, why should people know? Keep your beauty problems a secret. Never appear in public unless "your face is on."

No one need know mascara,

Don't Let 'Em See You "Without Your Face On"

By JEANNE D'ARCY
King Features Syndicate
"You look so beautiful I didn't recognize you!"

Is that statement a compliment? Not to our way of thinking! It implies that, last-time seen, the party in question looked a fright. Yet there are women who hear such comments. They go along, day in and day out, appearing plain and dreary. Along comes the annual office dance and they go all out in preparations, arrive glittering with glamour, are scarcely recognized by co-workers.

There is, for example, a teenager, Shirley, we know who had just such an experience. She met a boy she knew at a church dance but he didn't know her, and small wonder. The lad in question held an after-school and Saturday job at the local grocery store. Sure he'd seen Shirley doing the shopping for her Mother, but it was a Shirley in slacks and a leather jacket, a kerchief tied over her head as a not-very-successful camouflage for pin curls.

This creature bore little resemblance to the prettied-up-for-the-party Shirley. It was a pleasant surprise for the lad and a lesson for Shirley. Her shopping appearance improved considerably as a result. The motto of the story is to take pride in appearance every day, not just for special occasions. What's more, if you're not a natural beauty, why should people know? Keep your beauty problems a secret. Never appear in public unless "your face is on."

No one need know mascara,

Middletown, Deshler Voted As Top Teams

Cleveland East Tech, Zanesville Battle for Second in Class AA

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ohio's scrap for the state Class AA high turned into a race for second place today.

Of 30 sports writers voting in today's Associated Press poll, 22 pinned the No. 1 tag on Middletown's two-time state champs. Middletown racked up its 64th straight conquest Friday, trimming second-place Hamilton, 64-49, before a crowd of 13,649 in Cincinnati Gardens.

Only other teams to get a top spot nod were Columbus North (1), Toledo Scott (5), Canton McKinley (1) and Ironton (1).

Paul Walker's champs, in their tussle with their Butler County rivals, saw fabulous Jerry Lucas pour in 31 points—only less than half the Middle title—to run his 64-game point total to 2,016.

The win was Middletown's 12th of the year, and the loss was Hamilton's first in nine games. The defeat dropped Hamilton's Big Blue from second to fourth in the ratings as Cleveland East Tech moved into the runner-up spot. Zanesville clung to third.

Middletown and Cleveland East Tech took the 1-2 positions without voting aid from their home towns. Middletown piled up 285 poll points on the 10-9-8-etc voting basis, and East Tech—without a first place vote—was next with 184.

Although the top 10 in Class AA was jumbled somewhat in the week's voting, only Canton South dropped from the select list—losing its No. 10 post to unbeaten Salem.

In Class A, where the teams were rated for the first time, Deshler with a 15-1 record emerged on top, a shade ahead of unbeaten Glenford. Only Glenford and the last three teams in the top 10—Sabina, Bethel and Dixie—were unbeaten. Ottawa Hills, with 9-2, made fourth place on five first-place votes from the Toledo area, and Columbus's Clippers, beaten twice in eight starts, pulled up fifth.

From Here and There: Remember little Bethel's Blackhawks, who won 27 of 29 last year and lost in the state tournament semi-finals to Gratis by a point?

The little school, with only 16 boys enrolled, is at it again with 13 in a row. Ed Bode, the all-tournament center, is the only regular back on coach Dick Potts' team, and he's averaging 23.2. Last week Bethel handed Class AA Bellaire its first defeat, 68-62. "Tiny Tim" Phillips, Barnesville's 5-7 guard, scored 61 points in a 117-40 romp over Bethesda last week, the top performance in Class AA.

St. Clairsville's 6-5 Clyde Eads also had a big night as he went for 55 in the 77-33 win over Warwood, W. Va. Earlier in the week, St. Clairsville lost its first regular season game in two campaigns. Bridgeport won 55-46, despite a 31-point spurge by Eads. Bridgeport has won eight in a row, and is paced by 6-4 Johnny Hayvick—the kid Ohio State wants as a future quarterback. Hayvick has 267 points for an average of over 33, while Phillips is averaging 28.2 and Eads 29.8.

Pleasantville has won 11 of 13, losing a pair of two-pointers. Senior Buddy Miller, with 342 points and a 26.3 average, has a four-year total of 1,678.

Zanesville's third-place had a narrow escape at Lancaster Friday, a last-minute field goal by Chuck Bryant defeating the Gales 50-49.

Marvin (Bucky) Walls of Ohio City has scored 524 in 15 games for a 34.9 average but the team has lost six. The 5-11 senior has made 181 of 307 from the field and 158 of 183 free throws, including one string of 29 straight.

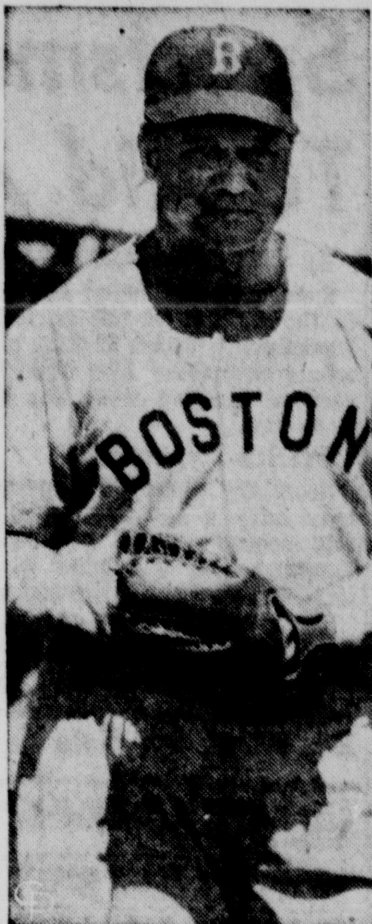

Here is how Ohio's sports editors rate the state's Class AA and Class A basketball teams. Shown are first place votes in parentheses, the poll points on a 10-9-8-etc basis and the won-lost records of the leaders:

Out-of-State Cage Teams Fare Poorly in Ohio Tests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio college basketball teams gave invading out-of-state opponents an inhospitable welcome Monday night. Only one of five visiting teams was able to take away a victory and it had to go into overtime to achieve that.

Ohio State moved into a second-place tie in the Big Ten on the wings of a 70-64 victory over Minnesota. The Bucks are tied with Indiana, which was idle Monday. Both teams have 3-2 marks and

Carroll Stops Walnut, 61-57

Walnut took it on the chin Saturday night by a 61 to 57 count at the hands of Carroll Fairfield County. Walnut led at the end of the third quarter 45-42, but Carroll hit everything in the final period outscoring the Tigers 19 to 12 to notch a win on its home court.

Carroll led 13 to 10 at the end of the first quarter and 30 to 27 at halftime. The Tigers again were hot and cold during the evening and their center man Boyd Barr was held scoreless.

Walnut outscored Carroll 25-23 in field goals but lost the contest at the free throw line. Carroll hit 15 of 19 chances at the charity line for a 79 per cent average. The Tigers had a 33 per cent shooting average from the field.

Coach Tom Bryant's now have an 8-5 record.

Carroll also won the reserve contest, 56-50.

Mathias Says U.S. Fitness Is Waning

HOLLYWOOD — Russia is going to win the 1960 Olympic games and another chunk of world-wide prestige unless America wakes up, says Bob Mathias, two-time Olympic decathlon champion.

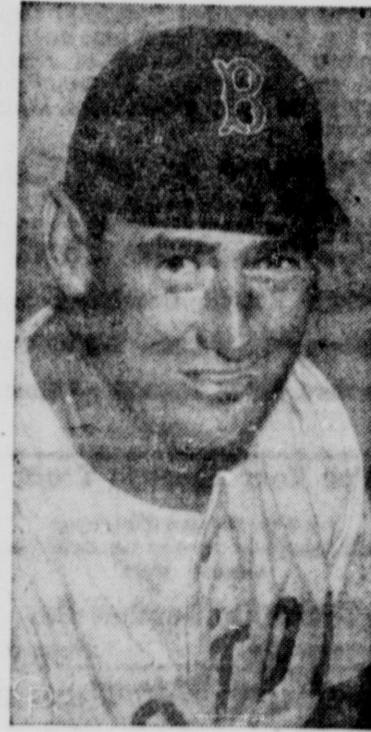

Too much television, too many cars and not enough competition in grade school and high school have taken the edge off the physical condition of America's youth, added the man who first won the world's decathlon championship as a 17-year-old high school boy.

"Another trouble is we put too much emphasis on football and baseball so that kids aren't much interested in going out for gymnastics and tumbling and wrestling, and things like that," Mathias said Monday.

Ten all-games basketball scoring race.

Dees, who produced 33 points in his only outing, upped his total to 306 points for a 12-game average of 25.5.

Ohio State's Frank Howard took over second place with 260 points in 13 games for a 20.0 average. In third place was Michigan's Pete Tillotson with 234 points in 12 games for a 19.5 average.

"PLAYER OF THE YEAR" — The New York Chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America named Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams "Player of the Year." He won the 1957 batting title with a .388 average. (International)

Golf Pros Heading For New Tourneys

TIJUANA, Mexico — The professional golf nomads split forces today, some for California, others to Panama and the newly-crowned winner of the $15,000 Tijuana Open, E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, to Phoenix to rest up for the tournament there late this month.

Harrison who has campaigned in the tough tournament grind for about 20 of his 47 years, gave the youngsters a solid lesson in pocketing the $2,000 top money.

Playing the par 72 Tijuana Country Club course, Harrison did it with rounds of 71-71-69-69—280, eight strokes under par.

Tribe Players To Be Taught How to Run

CLEVELAND — It may come as a shock to the Cleveland Indians but their new manager, Bob Bragan, wants to teach them how to run.

Bragan has asked former Olympic sprint and hurdles champion Harrison Dillard to help the Indians develop that extra burst of speed.

Bragan, currently managing Almadens in the Cuban League, arrived from Havana Monday for his first look at Cleveland.

The former Pittsburgh Pirate manager talked in the club offices with another newcomer to the Tribe, general manager Frank Lane. Then he cornered Dillard, who works in the Indians' public relations office.

Bragan asked the track star to attend spring training to teach the Indians how to run properly.

"The Olympic coach in Cuba, Raudo Ruiz, has been working with some of the ballplayers down there," Bragan said, "and the results have been very good."

"Of course it takes months of practice, but I think that if Harrison would begin working with some of the players at spring training you would see a great improvement."

Dillard has said frequently that baseball players do not run properly. He mentioned outfielder Larry Doby, a former Indian now with Baltimore.

"He runs like a football player. Feet wide apart."

"A lot of other ballplayers run the same way. No one ever taught them any different."

Laurelville Five Host St. Mary's

Laurelville's Indians will entertain the powerful cagers of Lancaster St. Mary's tonight.

The Indians will be seeking their 12th win in 13 starts this year. Their only loss was an early season defeat at the hands of Hamden.

Giant-Killers Cutting Swath In Top Listing

NEW YORK — If West Virginia's top-ranked Mountaineers and seven companions in the Associated Press' new weekly top 10 of college basketball are grateful today to be involved in mid-term exams, it's little wonder.

Monday night was a night for giant-killers.

Sixth-ranked Maryland and 10th-rated Bradley learned the hard way—Maryland as it was bounced out of the Atlantic Coast Conference leadership by North Carolina State, 57-48, and Bradley in a shocking 58-55 loss to unsung Portland.

The eight others, and most of the nation's major clubs, are out of competition at least until Saturday while they concentrate on examinations.

West Virginia was again a romping winner in the AP poll with 925 points to 728 for runnerup Kansas.

Yardley Takes Lead In Pro Scoring Duel

NEW YORK — Detroit's George Yardley, breaking a slight slump, whipped in 167 points in five games last week to take a 100-point lead over Dolph Schayes of Syracuse in the National Basketball Assn.'s scoring race.

With a 27.3 average for 44 games, Yardley has one of the top averages ever in the NBA.

Official statistics from the league today show Yardley with 1,201 points to 1,101 for Schayes, who has a 25 point per game average. Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks, although hampered by a wrist injury, follows in third place with 1,049 points in 42 games, a 25 point average.

Basilio Pockets Hickok Trophy

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — Carmen Basilio today stowed away the Hickok 10,000 Pro Athlete of the Year award in his bulging trophy case and headed into the final week of his busy coast-to-coast banquet tour.

"I think this is more rugged than fighting," said the middle-weight boxing champion. "But it's great too. It means I've made it."

Middletown, Desher Voted As Top Teams

Cleveland East Tech, Zanesville Battle for Second in Class AA

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's scrap for the state Class AA high turned into a race for second place today.

Of 30 sports writers voting in today's Associated Press poll, 22 pinned the No. 1 tag on Middletown's two-time state champs. Middletown racked up its 64th straight conquest Friday, trimming second-place Hamilton, 64-49, before a crowd of 13,649 in Cincinnati Gardens.

Only other teams to get a top spot nod were Columbus North (1), Toledo Scott (5), Canton McKinley (1) and Ironton (1).

Paul Walker's champs, in their tussle with their Butler County rivals, saw fabulous Jerry Lucas pour in 31 points—only less than half the Middle total—to run his 64-game point total to 2,016.

The win was Middletown's 12th of the year, and the loss was Hamilton's first in nine games. The defeat dropped Hamilton's Big Blue from second to fourth in the ratings as Cleveland East Tech moved into the runner-up spot. Zanesville clung to third.

Middletown and Cleveland East Tech took the 1-2 positions without voting aid from their home towns. Middletown piled up 285 poll points on the 10-9-8-etc voting basis, and East Tech—without a first place vote—was next with 184.

Although the top 10 in Class AA was jumbled somewhat in the week's voting, only Canton South dropped from the select list—losing its No. 10 post to unbeaten Salem.

In Class A, where the teams were rated for the first time, Desher with a 15-1 record emerged on top, a shade ahead of unbeaten Glenford. Only Glenford and the last three teams in the top 10—Sabina, Bethel and Dixie—are unbeaten. Ottawa Hills, with 9-2, made fourth place or five first-place votes from the Toledo area, and Columbiana's Clippers, beaten twice in eight starts, pulled up fifth.

From Here and There: Remember little Bethel's Blackhawks, who won 27 of 29 last year and lost in the state tourney semi-finals to Gratis by a point?

The little school, with only 16 boys enrolled, is at it again with 13 in a row. Ed Bode, the all-tournament center, is the only regular back on coach Dick Potts' team, and he's averaging 23.2. Last week Bethel handed Class AA Bellaire its first defeat, 68-62. "Tiny Tim" Phillips, Barnesville's 5-7 guard, scored 61 points in a 117-40 romp over Bethesda last week, the top performance in Class AA.

St. Clairsville's 6-5 Clyde Eads also had a big night as he went for 55 in the 77-33 win over Woodward, W. Va. Earlier in the week, St. Clairsville lost its first regular-season game in two campaigns. Bridgeport won 55-46, despite a 31-point spurge by Eads.

Bridgeport has won eight in a row, and is paced by 6-4 Johnny Havlicek—the kid Ohio State wants as a future quarterback. Havlicek has 267 points for an average of over 33, while Phillips is averaging 28.2 and Eads 29.8.

Pleasantville has won 11 of 13, losing a pair of two-pointers. Senior Buddy Miller, with 342 points and a 26.3 average, has a four-year total of 1,678.

Zanesville's third-placers had a narrow escape at Lancaster Friday, a last-minute field goal by Chuck Bryant defeating the Gales 50-49.

Marvin (Bucky) Walls of Ohio City has scored 524 in 15 games for a 34.9 average but the team has lost six. The 5-11 senior has made 181 of 307 from the field and 158 of 183 free throws, including one string of 29 straight.

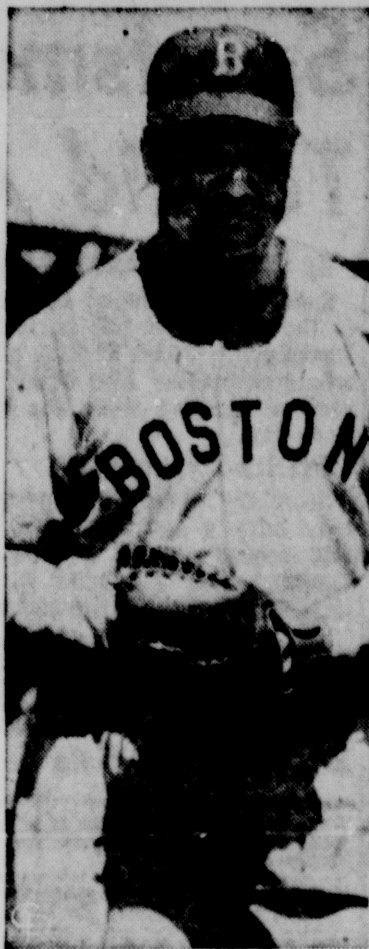

Here is how Ohio's sports editors rate the state's Class AA and Class A basketball teams. Shown are first place votes in parentheses, the poll points on a 10-9-8-etc basis and the won-lost records of the leaders:

HELP NEEDED—Once the home run king of baseball, Jimmy Fox, former slugger star of the Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox, now is destitute, it has been revealed. Fox, 50, who hit 534 home runs in his career and is in the Hall of Fame, was found living in a south Miami apartment owing several months rent. A Boston friend wired Fox $400 when he heard of his plight. The slugger is shown above in a recent picture and as a star. (International)

Out-of-State Cage Teams Fare Poorly in Ohio Tests

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio college basketball teams gave invading out-of-state opponents an inhospitable welcome Monday night. Only one of five visiting teams was able to take away a victory and it had to go into overtime to achieve that.

Ohio State moved into a second-place tie in the Big Ten on the wings of a 70-64 victory over Minnesota. The Bucks are tied with Indiana, which was idle Monday. Both teams have 3-2 marks and trail the conference leader, Michigan (3-1).

One other conference game was played. Ohio University edged Toledo 69-66, in a penalty-riddled Mid-American Conference game at Toledo.

Officials halted play 58 times because of fouls, and free throws provided the margin of victory. OU made 33 of 48, while the Rockets could only hit 24 of 42.

The victory moved the Bobcats into a third place tie with Bowling Green (3-2). Toledo is 1-4 in the conference.

Kentucky schools made a mass invasion of the state but only Kentucky State was able to win, downing Central State, 80-79, in overtime.

Western Kentucky received the worst treatment—at the hands of Xavier. The Musketeers swamped the Hilltoppers, 102-76, for their 11th victory in 13 games. The Hilltoppers are 7-6.

Kentucky Christian was the third team to venture from the Blue Grass State. They were defeated by Rio Grande, 81-61. The victory moved the Redmen up to a .500 percentage, 5-5.

The biggest point production of the day came at Baldwin-Wallace. The Yellow Jackets took a 107-99 decision from Eastern Michigan.

The big score came despite the fact that B-W had to freeze the ball in the closing minutes to record their eighth win in 17 games. Eastern Michigan has lost 11 straight.

Tribe Players To Be Taught How to Run

CLEVELAND (AP)—It may come as a shock to the Cleveland Indians but their new manager, Bob Bragan, wants to teach them how to run.

Bragan has asked former Olympic sprint and hurdles champion Harrison Dillard to help the Indians develop that extra burst of speed.

Bragan, currently managing Almedares in the Cuban League, arrived from Havana Monday for his first look at Cleveland.

The former Pittsburgh Pirate manager talked in the club offices with another newcomer to the Tribe, general manager Frank Lane. Then he cornered Dillard, who works in the Indians' public relations office.

Bragan asked the track star to attend spring training to teach the Indians how to run properly.

"The Olympic coach in Cuba, Raudo Ruiz, has been working with some of the ballplayers down there," Bragan said, "and the results have been very good."

"Of course it takes months of practice, but I think that if Harrison would begin working with some of the players at spring training you would see a great improvement."

Dillard has said frequently that baseball players do not run properly. He mentioned outfielder Larry Doby, a former Indian now with Baltimore:

"He runs like a football player. Feet wide apart. 'A lot of other ballplayers run the same way. No one ever taught them any different.'"

Laurelville Five Host St. Mary's

Laurelville's Indians will entertain the powerful cagers of Lancaster St. Mary's tonight.

The Indians will be seeking their 12th win in 13 starts this year. Their only loss was an early season defeat at the hands of Hamden.

Giant-Killers Cutting Swath In Top Listing

NEW YORK (AP)—If West Virginia's top-ranked Mountaineers and seven companions in the Associated Press' new weekly top 10 of college basketball are grateful today to be involved in mid-term exams, it's little wonder.

Monday night was a night for giant-killers.

Sixth-ranked Maryland and 10th-rated Bradley learned the hard way—Maryland as it was bounced out of the Atlantic Coast Conference leadership by North Carolina State, 57-48, and Bradley in a shocking 58-55 loss to unsung Portland.

The eight others, and most of the nation's major clubs, are out of competition at least until Saturday while they concentrate on examinations.

West Virginia was again a romping winner in the AP poll with 925 points to 728 for runnerup Kansas.

Yardley Takes Lead In Pro Scoring Duel

NEW YORK (AP)—Detroit's George Yardley, breaking a slight slump, whipped in 167 points in five games last week to take a 100-point lead over Dolph Schayes of Syracuse in the National Basketball Assn.'s scoring race.

With a 27.3 average for 44 games, Yardley has one of the top averages ever in the NBA.

Official statistics from the league today show Yardley with 1,201 points to 1,101 for Schayes, who has a 25 point per game average.

Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks, although hampered by a wrist injury, follows in third place with 1,049 points in 42 games, a 25 point average.

Stout Defense Defeats MSU

Wisconsin Is Winner Over Spartans, 66-52

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Defense isn't a forgotten art in present day basketball and one of the latest concepts is Michigan State.

The Spartans, running for a first place tie in the Big Ten, ran into the defensive-minded Badgers from Wisconsin who pulled off an unexpected 66-52 victory.

And while the Badgers were busy harassing Michigan State, Ohio State pulled back into contention with a 70-64 victory over Iowa.

Michigan State's loss left idle Michigan on top of the heap with a 3-1 record with Indiana and Ohio State, both 3-2, tied for second. Michigan State (2-2), Northwestern (2-2), Purdue (2-2), Wisconsin (3-3), Iowa (2-3), Minnesota (1-2) and Illinois (1-3) followed.

For the Spartans, Michigan State coach, credited the Badger defense with the Wisconsin triumph. "Wisconsin played a nice defensive game," said Anderson.

"This was partially responsible for our not hitting—which probably was a key factor."

The Spartans didn't hit. They connected on only 27 per cent of their shots while Wisconsin poured in a healthy 38 per cent.

MSU took a quick 12-6 lead before a Wisconsin rally, led by Walt Holt, put the Badgers out in front 17-15. Wisconsin maintained the two-point edge and was on top, 29-27, at halftime. From then on it was all Wisconsin. Holt finished with 22 points for scoring honors.

Wisconsin Coach Bud Foster was pleased and proud.

"The boys went out with their pregame plan of attack and it worked all through the game," he added.

Frank Howard, Ohio State's All-America candidate, proved to be too much for Iowa's sophomores. Howard collected 22 points—tops for both teams—and snatched 18 rebounds as the Buckeyes took control of the boards.

Iowa managed four leads early in the game but OSU was in front 45-34 at halftime. The tremendous lead carried the Buckeyes through a slight second half slump. Ohio State out rebounded the Hawkeyes 57-34.

Iowa Coach Bucky O'Connor, who called Indiana's Archie Dees "one of the finest if not the finest player in the country" last Saturday when Iowa beat Howard.

"I think he is the strongest man I've seen in this league."

Only two conference games are scheduled Saturday. Iowa is at Minnesota in a regionally televised matinee and Northwestern is at Michigan State that night.

Illinois meets Notre Dame in a Chicago Stadium doubleheader, which also pits Loyola of Chicago against Marquette.

Pensions Up After 10 Years

Inheritances Must Be Reported to VA

(Veterans who have a question of interest to ex-servicemen should pass it along to Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer, Jim Shea. His offices are in the basement of the Courthouse in Circleville.)

Q—In March of this year, I will have received my Total Non-Serviced Connected Pension for 10 consecutive years. Will my pension automatically increase at that time, or must I make application for the increase?

A—After you have received a Total Non-Serviced Connected Pension for 10 consecutive years, it will automatically increase to $78.75. You do not need to make an application for this increase.

Q—I am receiving a Total Non-Serviced Connected Pension. I am going to receive an inheritance in the near future. Must I report this inheritance to the VA?

A—If the inheritance is in the form of money, it must be reported to the VA. If the inheritance plus any other income you may have, brings your income over the allowed limit your pension will be discontinued for this year. If, however, the inheritance is in the form of real estate, or other property, it need not be reported until such time as you may convert it into cash.

Q—I am a WWI veteran. I was discharged from the service after one week, due to a disability which existed prior to my induction. Am I eligible for a pension?

A—I am sorry, but you are not. In order to be eligible you must have been in the service for a period of not less than 90 days, or discharged for a disability incurred in service. Since your disability existed prior to entering the service, you are not eligible for a pension.

Q—I entered the service in February 1947. I was discharged several years later with a Service Connected Disability. Am I still eligible for Vocational Rehabilitation?

A—I find that a veteran is entitled to vocational rehabilitation provided he entered the service between Sept. 16, 1940 and July 26, 1947, and has an injury or disability incurred or aggravated by the service, and provided the disability is such that it requires vocational rehabilitation training to restore employability. Under normal circumstances, such vocational rehabilitation training must have been completed by July 25, 1956, however, under specified conditions, such training may be provided for veterans of WWII until July 25, 1960.

Industrial Aides Seek Roles in SUB Lawsuit

CLEVELAND (AP)—Three Columbus men have asked permission to enter a Youngstown lawsuit involving Supplemental Unemployment Benefits.

A hearing will be held Wednesday by Common Pleas Judge Erskine Maiden at Youngstown on the petition of Donald R. Smith of Timken Roller Bearing Co., Richard H. Ward of Westinghouse Corp., and a representative of the C. E. Morris Co., steel fabricators. They claim they will be discriminated against if Supplemental Unemployment Benefits are legalized.

'KINGFISH' IN COURT—Harry Moore, 70, the "Kingfish" of the "Amos and Andy" television series, is shown with his wife, Vivian, 39, in a Los Angeles court where he appeared on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. The charge resulted from a shooting incident in their home over a missing piece of roast beef. Mrs. Moore, the complainant, tried to withdraw her charge, but the "Kingfish" has been ordered to stand trial.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband and I both work and much of his work is out-of-town. After weekends at home, he sleeps Monday mornings until 10 minutes or so before I leave for work, then has coffee with me before I go. He packs his bag and leaves after I'm gone.

Now for the problem: He dumps his dirty laundry on the floor, leaves two or three pairs of shoes (with dirty socks inside) scattered about and hangs shirts and slacks, worn while home, on door tops and door knobs. He leaves the bed unmade and doesn't clear the kitchen table.

Days when I'm here alone I make the bed on arising and clean the dishes before I leave. I put soiled clothes in the bathroom hamper and my shoes in the bedroom closet.

Finally I wrote my feelings to Ted. I told him I thought he was being inconsiderate in leaving me so much disorder; that I wanted to be his helpmate and companion, not his maid; and that it was very demoralizing to me to face such a mess after a hard day's work.

When he got home this weekend, he said he didn't even want to discuss my unpleasant letter, which made him feel that I thought he was all right just as long as he brought in the money and made no trouble. We both feel ill used.

He says if I were properly devoted I'd gladly pick up after him. I feel if he were rightly devoted, he wouldn't expect me to, regardless of whether I work. I think he shows no regard for my feelings, in piling on extra chores.

Half the Battle: Selecting Proper Form for Return

Editor's Note: The second in an eight-part series, this article describes how to select the proper form for filing your income tax return. Later articles will deal with classes of returns, exemptions, taxable income, deductions, and other important subjects.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When you have all the facts and figures collected on your 1957 income and deductions, the next step is to decide which form to use in filing your tax return.

There are two basic forms available—the 1040 and the 1040A. The 1040 can be used as a short form, using only page 1, or as a long form, using pages 1 and 2, and possibly 3 and 4. You should pick the form that fits the size and type of your income and expenses.

Form 1040A is the simplest of all, and the Internal Revenue Service would like to see it used more than it is. It is a printed card, about the size of an ordinary check, and can be processed by machine. It's designed to save both taxpayer and tax collector considerable time and trouble.

The IRS says about 30 million taxpayers could use this form if they only would. Last year 14 million did, and IRS hopes at least 20 million will this year.

1040A doesn't call for any great detail. You could probably finish your income tax chores in five minutes or less by using it. All you have to do is fill out a few blanks, sign it, and send it to the revenue service. They'll figure up your tax and send you a bill or a refund, depending on your individual situation.

If you want, you can compute your own taxes from the instructions you'll get, and enter it on the form. This will be to your advantage if you have a refund coming, because you'll probably get your check from the government a bit sooner. However, if you do your own computing and find you owe Uncle Sam more taxes, you must send along a check for the amount—you can't wait for a bill.

The gimmick on this easy, almost painless, way of filing your return is that not everyone is eligible to use it, and you may not want to use it even if you can.

For instance, your total income must not be more than $4,999.99. If it's a joint return, the combined income of husband and wife must not exceed $4,999.99. This income must consist mainly of salaries or wages from which income taxes have been withheld. Not more than $100 can be in other wages, dividends or interest.

You can't use the 1040A if you had other types of income such as annuities, rent receipts, royalties, pension payments, business profits, professional earnings, security transactions, farming income, or earnings as a participant in partnerships, estates and trusts.

And you can't use this form if you want to itemize your deductions or deduct your business-connected expenses (such as traveling costs) of "sick pay." Nor can you use it if you claim the special "head of household" status.

If you can't use 1040A, or don't want to, you'll next have to decide how many pages of the 1040 you should fill out.

Form 1040 is printed on pages about the size of a large letterhead. There are four pages, but the average taxpayer needs worry only about pages 1 and 2.

If your adjusted gross income is not more than $4,999.99, you may be able to get by with page 1 only. Your adjusted gross income is

Anti-Horse Thief Group Still Alive

WEST UNION (AP)—The Anti-Horse Thief Society in nearby Bentonville still stands ready to do its duty after more than a century of service.

But its captain, Lloyd Roush, admits most of the excitement went out of the society's job when the horseless carriage came in. Gone are the days when society riders answered the alarm to track some lowdown boss thief.

The society has kept its name, but its duties today are confined mainly to tracing historical information about Adams County and preserving it as one of the most authentic and complete accounts of the area.

Organized in 1856 for obvious reasons, the society was incorporated in 1880. It meets regularly once each January to elect officers and to hear reports. Any other meetings must be called.

The society has resisted change through the years, maintaining its original number of officers, trustees and riders, as the general membership is known. Its new president is Charles S. what's left after you've deducted your business expenses and sick pay exclusions. Thus, you can have a total income of $5,000 or more, and still use just page 1 if those deductions bring the adjusted gross below the $5,000 mark.

On this form, too, there are certain restrictions.

You can get by using just page 1 if you are single with no dependents to claim as exemptions, or if you are married and claim exemptions only for your wife and children. And to use the first page only you must accept the standard 10 per cent deduction, just as on the 1040A.

If your adjusted gross income is $5,000 or more, you have no choice. You must use the longer form of 1040, which means pages 1 and 2, and possibly 3 and 4.

This calls for a bit more work, but there are a number of special benefits you can claim. For instance, if you have other dependents besides your wife and children—say your mother or mother-in-law, a niece or nephew, etc.—and you are qualified to claim them as exemptions, you can list them on page 2 and thus reduce your tax.

Also on page 2 you can itemize your deductions for interest paid, charity, medical expense, etc., and this may result in a substantial saving to you.

Pages 3 and 4 are for use in reporting income from dividends, interest, rents and royalties, and from partnerships, estates, trusts or other sources.

Remember, the first $50 of dividend income—$100 if the stock is jointly owned with your wife—is tax free.

If you use the short form of 1040, or page 1 only, a table on the back of the instruction book will tell you your tax liability according to your marital status, the number of your exemptions, and the size of your adjusted gross income.

If you use the long form you get the help of a table, but you still have to do the arithmetic of working out your own tax.

By looking over your income figures you should now be able to select the proper form to use this year in filing your tax return. The next article will deal with the various classes of returns.

Ike at Odds With Advisers To Industry

Business Recession Timetable Views Show Differences

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—President Eisenhower's views of the extent and probable timetable of the business recession are at odds with those of some of the economic advisers of industry.

As presented in Monday noon's economic report, the President holds:

1. The slump began sooner and hit harder than his advisers had told him to expect and presumably with the timetable stepped up the recovery should come earlier, too.

2. Some chief strong points in the economy haven't been hit much and will quickly outweigh those that were—with two new factors, enlarged defense spending and recently liberalized credit, already being felt.

The administration is counting on a reversal in the business and employment trends before the Fourth of July.

In industry the guessing was along that line, too, until recently. Now there is a split amongst the business experts. A handful thinks the turn will come with Easter. But many more experts have switched their ideas of the time for reversal of the trend to sometime around Thanksgiving or Christmas.

When looking at any guessing along those lines these days, remember:

This is an election year. And in and out of Washington one side will stress anything that makes the business and employment picture look bad, perhaps even worse than it is. The other side will call attention to the strong points and glow with optimism about the changes for a big new upsurge before the November voting.

Most non government economists and business leaders agree that greater defense spending will boost certain affected industries, and that if credit is liberalized to the point where borrowing costs turn notably lower other forms of spending will be boosted, particularly spending by the state and local governments.

But the more cautious think that the real turn in the business tide will be signaled by the reports of the durable goods industries as a whole when the current phase of trimming inventories ends, when capital goods makers report their backlog of orders has stopped falling and new orders have started to appear again in volume on their books, then the business boom will have been born.

The President points confidently by a strong consumer demand, sustained to a large degree by the fact that so far there has been only a small decline in total in-

Jesse Lasky Labeled Part Of Hollywood Triumvirate

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles about the late Jesse Lasky, movie pioneer.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Jesse Lasky was the first of a famous triumvirate to be erased from the Hollywood scene.

In January, 1914, Lasky joined with Samuel Goldwyn and Cecil B. DeMille to form the Jesse Lasky Feature Play Co. with himself as president. DeMille was sent westward from New York to find some sunshine in which to make "The Squaw Man," he landed in Hollywood.

Goldwyn, 75, and DeMille, 76, are still titans in the industry. Both are multimillionaires. Lasky, who died last week at 77, made and lost 12 millions. But it's doubtful if his former partners had as much fun as he did.

Lasky was responsible for getting both of the film greats into the movie business. Having graduated from a cornet act in vaudeville, he aimed to produce plays. He discussed with a play broker, Mrs. H. C. DeMille, the possibility of her son William writing an operetta for him. William was busy and successful, so Mrs. DeMille sold him on her other son Cecil.

Lasky outlined his proposed plot and DeMille's imagination caught fire. Together they created the operetta "California," which was a hit.

Lasky's sister Blanche, with whom he tramped in vaudeville, was being courted by a glove cutter named Sam Goldfish. He wanted to get into the infant movie industry.

DeMille wanted to quit Broadway and head for the revolution in Mexico.

Lasky didn't want to lose him, so he said: "If you want adventure, I've got an even better idea—let's make some movies."

The pair took on Goldfish and started their company with $20,000.

Goldwyn, who underwent a name-change and married Lasky's sister (they were later divorced), left the company when it merged with Adolph Zukor's famous players.

DeMille followed an independent course, though he stayed with Famous Players-Lasky, and made films such as the first "Ten Commandments." But the eastern moguls balked at DeMille's lavishness and forced him out of the company in 1924. Lasky hung on as studio head until 1932. Then the remaining member of the original triumvirate was eased out. (Tomorrow: Lasky the Relentless Campaigner)

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gerald H. Huffman, a former Ohio extension official, has been named assistant administrator for programs of the Federal Extension Service, the U. S. Department of Agriculture announced today.

A native of Milford Center, Ohio, and a 1936 graduate of Ohio State University, Huffman began his Ohio extension work in 1938 as acting county agent of Hamilton County. After seven months he moved to Clinton County as assistant county agent and in 1950 became county agent of Butler County.

He remained in Butler County until 1949 when he accepted a post with the Economic Cooperation Administration's mission in Italy and France as an extension specialist. He joined the Federal Extension Service in 1954.

THIS is Texas Eastern

Just eleven years ago Texas Eastern took its first step as a fledgling corporation. Its immediate goal: the purchase and conversion of the war-built Big Inch and Little Big Inch pipelines to the transmission of natural gas.

Since February, 1947, Texas Eastern's interests in the petroleum industry have been greatly broadened and expanded. Today, Texas Eastern

- explores for, produces, purchases, processes and transports natural gas...
- explores for, produces and refines crude oil...
- transports petroleum products.

Texas Eastern's natural gas pipeline system—now 5900 miles long—spans 14 states between Mexico and the Northeast. Its pipelines, which supply natural gas used in millions of homes and thousands of factories, have a combined capacity of more than 1.7 billion cubic feet per day.

Texas Eastern's newly created "Little Big Inch Division" will soon be operating a 1700-mile petroleum products pipeline system. This new system—one of the nation's largest common carriers of petroleum products—links the refineries of the Gulf Coast, Ark-La-Tex and Mid-Continent areas with major marketing areas of the Midwest.

The Company's Production Division and its recently-acquired subsidiary, La Gloria Oil and Gas Company, are exploring for oil and gas in a half dozen states. They have interests in over 600 producing oil and gas wells... and in thousands of acres of proved and semi-proved oil and gas areas.

Through La Gloria's ultramodern Tyler, Texas refinery, Texas Eastern is engaged in custom refining of aviation and automotive gasolines. La Gloria's giant gas cycling plant at Falfurrias, Texas, further adds to Texas Eastern's diversification.

Through a company affiliate, Algonquin Gas Transmission Company, gas from the Texas Eastern system is sold in large areas of southern New England and as far north as Boston.

These operations have made Texas Eastern a truly versatile company, broadening its service to consumers of oil and gas as well as to the people who produce and process them.

Half the Battle: Selecting Proper Form for Return

Editor's Note: The second in an eight-part series, this article describes how to select the proper form for filing your income tax return. Later articles will deal with classes of returns, exemptions, taxable income, deductions and other important subjects.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

When you have all the facts and figures collected on your 1957 income and deductions, the next step is to decide which form to use in filing your tax return.

There are two basic forms available—the 1040 and the 1040A. The 1040 can be used as a short form, using only page 1, or as a long form, using pages 1 and 2, and possibly 3 and 4. You should pick the form that fits the size and type of your income and expenses.

Form 1040A is the simplest of all, and the Internal Revenue Service would like to see it used more than it is. It is a printed card, about the size of an ordinary check, and can be processed by machine. It's designed to save both taxpayer and tax collector considerable time and trouble.

The IRS says about 30 million taxpayers could use this form if they only would. Last year 14 million did, and IRS hopes at least 20 million will this year.

1040A doesn't call for any great detail. You could probably finish your income tax chores in five minutes or less by using it. All you have to do is fill out a few blanks, sign it, and send it to the revenue service. They'll figure up your tax and send you a bill or a refund, depending on your individual situation.

If you want, you can compute your own taxes from the instructions you'll get, and enter it on the form. This will be to your advantage if you have a refund coming, because you'll probably get your check from the government a bit sooner. However, if you do your own computing and find you owe Uncle Sam more taxes, you must send along a check for the amount—you can't wait for a bill.

The gimmick on this easy, almost painless, way of filing your return is that not everyone is eligible to use it, and you may not want to use it even if you can.

For instance, your total income must not be more than $4,999.99. If it's a joint return, the combined income of husband and wife must not exceed $4,999.99. This income must consist mainly of salaries or wages from which income taxes have been withheld. Not more than $100 can be in other wages, dividends or interest.

You can't use the 1040A if you had other types of income such as annuities, rent receipts, royalties, pension payments, business profits, professional earnings, security transactions, farming income, or earnings as a participant in partnerships, estates and trusts.

And you can't use this form if you want to itemize your deductions or deduct your business-connected expenses (such as traveling costs) of "sick pay." Nor can you use it if you claim the special "head of household" status.

If you can't use 1040A, or don't want to, you'll next have to decide how many pages of the 1040 you should fill out.

Form 1040 is printed on pages about the size of a large letterhead. There are four pages, but the average taxpayer needs worry only about pages 1 and 2.

If your adjusted gross income is not more than $4,999.99, you may be able to get by with page 1 only. Your adjusted gross income is
